WILKINS CHARGED BY JURY WITH WOMAN'S MURDER

KLEINSCHMIDT TO GRAND JURY MONDAY

Body Will Be Asked to Indict Him at Once.

Pending announcement of decision by Superior Judge Harris in the habeas corpus proceedings undertaken for the purpose of releasing Harry G. Kleinschmidt from custody, the next important step in the sensational Berkeley case will be its consideration by the grand jury.

The inquisitorial body has been summoned to meet next Monday when District Attorney Everett Brown will at once place before the jury the evidence he and the peace officers have gathered which he believes forms strong proof of the guilt of Harry Kleinschmidt for the murder of Frank Bellows on the night of July 26.

WITNESSES SUMMONED.

It is uncertain as yet, whether Miss Blanche Kerfoot of Sutter Creek will be able to be a witness Monday before the grand jury. However the District Attorney hopes she will. CALIFORNIA BANK IS SOLVENT, SAY THE BANK COMMISSIONERS

Tell "The Tribune" Today That Such Will Be Their Report Next Week---Bank Condition Was Surprising and Extremely Satisfactory.

....Within the next few days the State Bank Commissioners will publicly report the California Bank, of which D. Edward Collins is the president, to be entirely solvent.

Such a declaration was made by Bank Commissioners H. E. Scherrer and J. C. Lynch late this afternoon.

"We have not got through with our investigations yet," said Commissioner Lynch to a TRIBUNE representative, "but have found everything to be in a better condition than was expected.

"IN FACT I MIGHT SAY THAT WE HAVE FOUND THE CALIFORNIA BANK TO BE PERFECTLY SOLVENT AND WILL SO REPORT WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS."

The commissioners were at work today in the Twenty-third Avenue Bank.

"The only complications that we have found," said Commissionre Lynch, "were in connection with the Ventura banking concern connetced with the California Bank and these are easy of adjustment and we have indicated the method of procedure. There has been nothing at any time to show that the California Bank was not solvent all the time."

"Then the bank will soon be in shape to open its doors?" was asked Mr. Lynch.

"So far as we are concerned," replied Mr. Lynch, "our report will be made next week."

This news is of the greatest interest to Oakland and will be hailed with delight. The closing down of the California Bank recently was followed by the statements of J. Edward Collins, its president, to the effect that the bank was solvent.

His statement is fully vindicated by both Bank Commissioners Scherrer and Lynch who have made an exhaustive investigation of its finances and affairs.

VERNIE WALAS POISONED BY STRYCHNINE; EVIDENCE GIVEN BY DR. O. D. HAMLIN

Verdict Promptly Returned After Witnesses Testify to Wilkins' Mysterious Actions.

"We, the jury, find that the name of the deceased was Verna Walas, aged 34; nativity unknown, and that she came to her death about the 21st of July, 1907, at Elmhurst, and that death was caused by strychnine poison administered to her by Mark A. Wilkins with criminal intent and we charge said Mark A. Wilkins with the crime of murder."

That was the verdict the coroner's jury of Elmhurst, composed of James J. O'Toole, foreman; Lester I. Mather, J. L. Wildy, B. Magnesson, J. E. Hood, E. A. Tressler and John Hamilton, rendered this morning after a few moments deliberation, after four witnesses had been placed on the stand to tell of the relations which existed between Wilkins and the woman he introduced to them as his wife. Dr. O. D. Hamlin, who is now conducting a chemical analysis of the woman's stomach, testified that he

Mrs. M. E. Burke, who resided in the house next to Wilkins', testified that Mrs. Walas had a cousin named Mrs. Dwight McBride, residing in Pasadena. The authorities gained their first information of the woman's having relatives in this State when Mrs. Burke made the statement and they are already trying to get in communication with Mrs. McBride.

Sheriff Frank Barnet was the first witness called at the inquest, which was held in Redmen Hall, at Elmhurst. The hall was crowded and Deputy Coroner George Murphy experienced considerable

EXPLODING OIL STOVE BURNS TWO SEVERELY AND SENDS GUESTS OF ATHENS HOTEL IN A HURRY

C. Walden, a porter at the Athens Hotel, and John B. Jordan, the proprietor, were badly burned this morning in an oil stove explosion which was heard for several blocks around and caused quite a commotion among the guests of the hostelry.

Wadden was picked up in a semi-unconscious condition and hurried to the Receiving Hospital. His face was badly burned and both of his hands were injured. Steward Borchert attended to him, after which Walden was taken to the Windsor Hotel, where he lives. The shock and injury will confine him to his room for several days.

Grass Widows and Widowers Do Not Want "Lemons" Next Time

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Mary Hulen, 415 East Fourteenth street, is the originator of Chicago's most novel and in many ways most exclusive club. She is forming a society of grass widows and grass widowers, to date 288 men and women, who have been divorced, have applied to her for membership. She desires, at the most, only thirty.

"How we may profit by our mistake and not get 'Damonized" next time," is the fundamental idea underlying the club, according to Mrs. Hulen. She proposes that the members talk over "in friendly chat" their wedded experiences so that "next time"—if it comes—they will know better.

"I was handed a whole crate of lemons in my experience," said Mrs. Huleu yesterday, "and I want to help our club where those of us who have suffered may met in a social way and help each other so that we may not be nipped again."

JAPAN WARS IN FORMOSA

TOKIO, Nov. 30.—Japan is experiencing trouble in the interior of Formosa, where aborigines from the east side are continually raiding and becoming bolder.

POLICEMAN BEARING WOUNDED WOMAN FROM CELLAR BURIED WITH BURDEN IN CAVE-IN

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—While endeavoring to rescue a seriously injured woman at an early hour this morning, from a sidewalk basement, into which she had fallen, Policeman Rocca, carrying her in his arms, was himself thrown back with his burden through the caving in of a portion of the sidewalk, and was buried beneath the debris, which fell upon him.

In his cramped position and with one foot and an arm sprained, the officer was unable to release himself and the woman from their position, and so, with great difficulty, getting his police whistle from his pocket, he blew for help. Patrolmen Sullivan and Nelson responded. After working for some time the officers succeeded in digging out the victims and they were removed to the Harbor Hospital.

BURIED UNDER CAVE-IN.

It was a little before 2 a. m. that Policeman Rocca, whose beat is on Broadway, heard cries issuing from an abandoned basement in front of a vacant lot near Sansome street. He investigated and found a woman, who later proved to be Mrs. Lottie Hansen, 47 years old, who lives at 85 Collingwood street, lying in a wounded condition, about ten feet below the sidewalk. Rocca descended to the basement, and picking the woman up difficulty in maintaining order while the inquest was on. Sheriff Barnet testified as to conversations he had held with Wilkins since the man's arrest. He told of the conflicting stories of the prisoner and how Wilkins accounted for the woman's death. He stated Wilkins said:

SHERIFF REPEATS WILKINS' STATEMENT.

"We were living as man and wife and 'Babe,' when she found she was to be a mother, committed suicide. She said that she could not stand to have any of her friends know that she was a mother when she was separated from her husband so many years."

Sheriff Barnet then told how Wilkins had explained "she died in July" when he was confronted with the body of the woman with whom he lived. The sheriff told of conversations he had had with Wilkins at the county jail. Wilkins, he said, acknowledged burying the woman, but later modified his statement by saying she committed suicide. He told Sheriff Barnet at one time before the body was found, on the day of his arrest, that the woman was in the East, but later, when he was rushed to the scene of the alleged crime, acknowledged that he had buried the woman.

WOMAN GIVES DAMAGING EVIDENCE.

Mrs. A. D. Anderson, whose suspicions resulted in the finding of the body of the woman, told of the dream she had, when she dreamt the body of the woman was buried under the house, and of her awakening to find Wilkins standing over her. Later on she told how Wilkins attempted to have her swear that she was his wife, and of his anger when she refused. The conflicting stories he told her about his wife first caused her to become suspicious.

Coroner Tisdale asked each witness what Wilkins' business was, but none could give a satisfactory answer, and none knew of his doing any work. At one time, so Mrs. Anderson said, Wilkins told her that his wife had died in the Eastern States, and again told her that she had died at Elmhurst. Mrs. Anderson said she asked him if his wife were really dead, and before answering he grabbed her and compelled her to sit in a chair. He then said:

TOLD HER WOMAN WAS NOT HIS WIFE.

"I'm going to tell you my secret. She is dead. She was not my wife, and I don't want these people around here to know it to disgrace her."

Continuing, the witness said:

"I asked him where she was buried, and he said 'That is my business.' Another time he told me I knew too much and I had better keep still."

A. D. Anderson, the husband of the woman, who reported her suspicions to the police which led to the discovery of the woman's body, told of his first meeting with Wilkins, and said he was very reticent about his past life. He said Wilkins had told him that the woman was buried in an Eastern State. Mrs. M. E. Burke told how Mrs. Walas was preparing for the birth of her child and declared that she was always in a cheerful mood. She had made arrangements with Mrs. Burke to visit a physician at Elmhurst, and it was only Sunday, the day before they were to visit the physician, that the woman disappeared. Mrs. Burke saw Wilkins carry out a number of wheel-barrows of earth from the shed where the woman's body was found. After the disappearance of the woman Wilkins told many conflicting stories. Three or four days after her disappearance Wilkins told of receiving a letter from her in which she wished to be remembered to Mrs. Burke.

SAID HE HAD RECEIVED TELEGRAM.

About October 12, about three months after the woman disappeared, Wilkins told Mrs. Burke that he had received a telegram from his wife, as he called her, and was compelled to go to Kansas City as she was about to become a mother. He was gone about twelve days, and when he came back he told Mrs. Burke he was the father of a boy. Mrs. Burke then told the coroner and the jury how, shortly after the disappearance of Mrs. Walas, a Jewish woman, had come to the Wilkins house when Wilkins was not there. She told Mrs. Burke that Wilkins had asked her to come to the house alone, but that she feared him and that was the reason she had brought one of her small children with her. The woman staed to Mrs. Burke that she came to the house to buy the clothing of the woman she knew as Wilkins' wife.

Wilkins had told her that his wife was dead. Dr. O. D. Hamlin was the final witness. He stated that evidence of a corrosive such as lime was shown by the condition of the skin and the very color of te hair. He said evidence om convulsions was present when the body of the woman was examined. She said the symptoms were those of strychnine poison, and that the analysis to the time, though not yet complete, caused him to believe that the woman died from strychnine poisoning.

Coroner Tisdale stated that if the jury could determine the manner of death of the woman from the testimony submitted and ascertain the cause of her death, they should report such in the verdict. After ten minutes' deliberation, the verdict charging Wilkins with the crime of murder, was returned.

It is expected that the father and husband of the woman believed to have been murdered, will reach Elmhurst tonight.

WILKINS REFUSES TO ATTEND INQUEST.

Wilkins was sulking this morning and refused to talk to any one. Before the party left for Elmhurst, Brown went to the county jail and spoke with Wilkins. He asked him if he cared to come to the inquest to which Wilkins said no. The party went out without him.

It has developed that Wilkins had a picture in his watch case of the woman who was murdered. When the photograph was looked for it was found that it had been removed. Wilkins denies knowing anything about it. Mrs. Anderson, one of the star witesses in the case, has been located at 1477 Fifth street, West Oakland. She was seen yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Reilley and in answer to questions said that at the time that Wilkins wished her to impersonate his wife in order to sell the property in Elmhurst, which was deeded to Wilkins and his wife, Wilkins took her to Koenig and Croll, notaries public. Mrs. Anderson refused to comply with Wilkins' demands. She says she went as far as the notary with him to ascertain how far he would go in the matter. She did this upon the wish of her husband.

SIDE OF FACE BLOWN AWAY

Experimenter With New Patent Is Burned in Explosion.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—J. B. Byrnes, an automobile machinist, living at 1160 Oak street, met with a horrible accident at 3 o'clock this morning, when the whole side of his face was almost blown away by the explosion of a pint of gasoline in a machine which he was repairing at the garage at 1141 Golden Gate avenue.

Byrnes was making an experiment on a new patent, when something went wrong and a spark got into the gasoline, causing a terrific explosion, the full force of which the man received on the right side of the face, the flesh being literally torn from the cheek. Burning oil enveloped him and the machine also caught fire. Other employes extinguished the blaze and rushed Byrnes to the central emergency hospital, where Dr. Topham applied soothing lotions to his scarred face and also dressed several bad burns on his hands.

WILL EXTEND SUNDAY CLOSING

Chicago's Law and Order League Includes Club and Hotel Bars in Crusade.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Clubs, hotels, dancing parties and social organizations of all kinds are to be the next to feel the lash of the Law and Order League. The warfare that was begun last week against the sale of liquor in saloons on Sunday will be extended to include all the bars in the city. The Union League, of which Emery S. Walker, attorney for the Law and Order League, is a member, is the first club that will be attacked.

The first Sunday bar in a hotel to be attacked will be the Pompeiian room in the Auditorium annex. Because of the greater difficulty in getting evidence against the clubs the saloons were attacked first. In the sorties to be made in the future by the League's investigators the bar-rooms in clubs and in fashionable hotels will be brought under the limelight.

"I belong to one culb myself, the Union League," said Attorney Walker, "but no favors are to be shown to any violators of the Sunday law. It is the plan of the Law and Order League to investigate without discrimination every place in which violation of the law is suspected."

CONVERT 3000 AT REVIVAL

Great Canvas Auditorium Packed Daily to Hear Leading Modern Evangelist.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—With a record of 375 conversions a week during an unbroken period of eight weeks, the Rev. R. A. Torrey, successor of Dwight L. Moody as the leader of modern evangelism, will bring to a close tomorrow night his spectacular revival campaign in the "big Gospel tent" at North Clark and Chestnut streets.

From the start the public interest has been unflagging. Night after night the spacious canvas topped auditorium has been the scene of striking conversions, in which scores of men arose in their places and expressed their determination to lead better livas. In the afternoon the meetings were attended by women for the most part, and the number of conversions was generally large.

One of the most spectacular features of a highly spectacular campaign was the systematic advertising done by the managers for Dr. Torrey. For this work a large sum of money was expended—the official estimate being $11,000.

As the car left the tenth floor on a downward trip, the cable parted and the cage plunged downward, striking the bottom of the shaft with terrific force. Most of the occupants were employes of the firms in the building and were leaving for the luncheon hour. Two bodies were taken out of the car at the bottom of the shaft. Six more were said to be under the wreckage.

LADY TEACHER SCRUBS BIG BOY

Applies Soapy Water and Brush to Dirty Face of Lad in Presence of Pupils.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Miss Albertina Lehmann, a pretty young school teacher of West Hammond, yesterday rolled up her sleeves and by vigorous application of muscle and a scrubbing brush succeeded in maintaining discipline and cleanliness in her school.

Albert Brant, a boy of 14 years and from outward appearances as strong as the teacher was the victim of her activities. Fifty-six pupils enjoyed an exciting half-hour, at the end of which the teacher was fatigued, but determined, and Brant was several shades whiter.

Several days ago Miss Lehmann began a crusade against dirty visages, but Brant said he was going to wear his face the way he pleased.

When the boy reached school the next morning he saw standing upon the teacher's desk a great pail of soapy water, and at its side a brush. Miss Lehmann called him to the front of the room and the combat started. The teacher soon gained the advantage. She then unbuttoned the collar of her shirt and rolled back her sleeves, after which she applied the scrubbrush.

Principal A. G. Beaver and the school janitor had concealed themselves in the hallway in order to meet any emergency, but their services were not needed.

BAD CHECKS

leged that the check was given Rodgers in part payment for a consignment of cigars which was originally purchased at Bercovich's cigar stand at Eighth and Broadway, and which passed from one broker to another with bewildering rapidity and was finally offered to Bercovich for purchase back.

According to the stork given to the police by Hellman, Rodgers, who lives at 817 San Pablo avenue, started the transaction by buying the cigars from Bercovich. Soon afterward he sold them to Bernstein, receiving in part payment the alleged bad check. Bernstein, in turn, sold the cigars to Hellman, and the latter, for reasons unexplained, attempted to sell them back to Bercovich. Before this last sale was completed it is alleged that the check was found to be bogus, which weakened the titles of the last two owners of the cigars and threatened the bank account of Rodgers. The police were notified and now they are trying to unravel the tangled skein of testimony which they have on hand.

SAYS WIFE THREATENED AND SEEKS DIVORCE

Beulah Hartman today brought suit for divorce against Simon Hartman, alleging extreme cruelty. The couple were married in Oakland September 16, 1905, and the plaintiff claims that almost from the first of their married life Hartman abused her. She alleges that on occasions he struck her and when in a very bad temper has threatened to take her life. There are no children.

CLAIMS NON-SUPPORT; PRAYS FOR DIVORCE

CARNEGIE AND AVEBURY AGREE

Neither Favor Central National Bank but Elasticity in Currency.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Andrew Carnegie has received a letter from Lord Avebury, president of the Central Association of Banks, correcting some misapprehensions concerning his position as to the establishment of a central national bank in the United States. Lord Avebury says he is not in favor of such a central institution and would be sorry to see one established in America. Carnegie agreed with Lord Avebury, and adds:

"All we need is elasticity in currency, acquired by allowing the issuing of credit notes on assets to one-fourth their value, charging banks on such issues a high rate of interest."

KLEINSCHMIDT

ser, Berkeley; A. E. J. Woods, Berkeley; Assistant District Attorney Carey; Chief of Police Vollmer; W. H. Dennis, Oakland.

Most of the testimony which these witnesses is expected to give has already been told in print, though it is understood that some important points have been reserved by District Attorney Brown for original denouement in the grand jury room.

Meanwhile Marshall Vollmer of Berkeley and Detective Jomleson are continuing their investigations into the case in the college town.

District Attorney Brown feels assured the he now has sufficient testimony to convince the grand jury that an indictment of Harry Kleinschmidt should be found and he expects that body to take such action as soon as he has presented the evidence. Even ithout the testimony of Miss Blanche Kerfoot it is thought by the District Attorney that substantial grounds for basing an indictment on are in readiness for presentation to the grand jury.

Harry Kleinschmidt, the suspect, continues to maintain much the same attitude he has shown from the first when placed under arrest. His family and friends continue to assert that he is not guilty of the murder of Frank Bellows and will be able to establish his innocence if placed on trial.

WOMAN DOCTOR GETS 20 YEARS

Charged Aged Female With Causing Death of 1000 Women.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—"Doctor" Lucy Hagenow, almost 60 years old, was found guilty of murder today in Judge Chetlain's court and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. She was tried on a charge of causing the death of Mrs. Anna Horavitch by an illegal operation.

Her removal to Joliet for twenty years removes from Chicago a woman who has long been a thorn to the police and the object of attack by reputable physicians and medical societies. It was stated in the closing arguments for the State that Mrs. Hagenow had practiced as a midwife in the United States, most of the time in Chicago, for thirty-five years, and had been the cause of one thousand deaths.

Mrs. Hagenow was also accused of having brought about the death of Miss Lola Maddison, a sister of Mrs. Bradley, who is being tried for the murder of former Senator Brown.

Miss Maddison's dying statement used at the trial was instrumental in bringing about a conviction.

By a coincidence the Hagenow verdict was rendered on the closing day of the trial of Mrs. Bradley.

ADELINE CLUB KEEPS BUSY

Hears Report as to Board of Public Work's Improvement in First Ward.

The last meeting of the North Adeline Improvement Club at Mellons' Hall, 936 Sixty-second street, was an enthusiastic one and nearly a hundred members were present. Twelve new members were added to the roll before the club took up the regular order of business.

At the request of the club, Secretary Fawcett of the board of public works was in attendance and gave a general outline of the work being done by the board in the first ward, describing the manner in which the board was reorganizing the various departments and the methods being pursued in street work, particularly in street cleaning and repair. Fawcett was kept busy answering questions of various members in regard to conditions that exist in the district in which the club is interested, especially as to street lights, cross-walks, fire hydrants and storm water conditions.

The members were pleased at the manner in which their questions were answered, and considered that they had obtained valuable information as a result of the meeting. Fawcett assured them that the board of public works desired to and their district in every way possible to as great an extent as the available funds would permit.

LADIES' NIGHT.

It was decided at the meeting that a ladies' night would be held in the near future, and also decided to meet every two weeks. A street light committee was appointe. of which J. H. Mahan was elected chairman.

The matter of the opening of Wheeler street was discussed pro and con, and it was agreed that as many members as could conveniently do so would attend the meeting of the council Monday night.

J. H. Boyer explained at considerable length the conditions in the district during storm ytimes and called the attention of the representative of the board of public works to some things that he thought should be given consideration.

The fire and police committee was instructed to confer with the mayor in regard to additional and temporary fire protection of the district at the request of Mr. Ingalls, representing the Alcatraz Improvement Club, which organization proposes to work in conjunction with the North Adeline Club in securing better fire protection for that district.

The club will meet again on Wednesday, December 11.

BELIEVE TROLLEY VICTIMS ARE PLACED ON TRACKS

One at Los Angeles Seems to Have Been Tied Alive to Rails.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30.—An unknown man was run over and killed by a Long Beach electric car at Long Beach avenue and Fifty-second street about 1 o'clock yesterday. Some of the circumstances indicate that the man may have been tied to the rails when he was run over. The motorman of the car thought that the victim attempted to rise just as he was struck. A piece of knotted and twisted rope was found near the body.

The man wore neither shoes nor trousers, and the police advance the theory that he may have been robbed of his clothes by footpads, who then tied him to the track. Both of the man's legs were cut off and his skull was fractured. He was of about 5 feet 10 inches in height and was of dark complexion, with a long, black mustache.

Another Near Stockton Probably Murdered and Laid in Way of Swift Car.

STOCKTON, Nov. 30.—The authorities are investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of an unidentified well dressed man, who was run over by an interurban car two miles outside of Stockton Saturday evening and rolled and dragged along the track for a distance of 100 feet until every bone in his body was broken.

The inquest developed facts which led Coroner Wallace to believe that the man might have been murdered and thrown upon the track to hide evidence of a tragedy.

The stranger was about 35 years old, and beside him, where he lay upon the track before the car struck him, was found a leather suit case with the name H. C. Carr stenciled on one end. There were no papers upon his person to confirm the identification.

POWDER WORKS FIRE COSTLY

Thousands of Dollars in Property and Supplies Lost at Pinole.

BERKELEY, Nov. 30.—Thousands of dollars went up in smoke and flames last evening when the sulphuric acid chambers of the Giant Powder Company at Pinole burned to the ground. The blaze broke out in unused acid chambers at 8:30 p. m. The origin of the fire is thought to have been due to spontaneous combustion, although it might easily have been kindled by firebugs, as the grounds are no longer patrolled in the night time with any degree of watchfulness.

Superintendent Frank Rowler stated this morning that the greater portion of the supplies stored in the acid chambers were saved by the efforts of the Pinole fire department, coupled with the assistance of volunteers. "I have not investigated the cause of the fire yet," said he, "but it will doubtless be found to have started from spontaneous combustion. We have not been using the acid chambers of our plant at this point for three years, consequently there was no one in the building at the time.

"The damage will amount to many thousands of dollars in loss of equipment and the structure itself."

RUSS AND JAP TALK OF TRADE

Former Minister Shipoff Lands Enterprise of Little Brown Skinned Folk.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

TOKIO, Nov. 30.—M. Shipoff, formerly the Russian minister of finance, is actively conferring with financiers and merchants with the view of increasing Russian trade. Japan, it is understood, has ambitious plans afoot to develop the Tsuruga-Vladivostok line in order to facilitate the exchange of shipments via the trans-Siberian Railroad.

M. Shipoff, interviewed by the Vernacular press, lauds the enterprise of Japan and emphasizes the increasing friendliness of the two peoples, and the almost entire disappearance of feeling as a result of the war.

It is intimated that the Japanese officials believe that M. Shipoff will be the first Russian ambassador to Japan. The present representative of Russia to Japan, M. Bakmetieff, is popular but his appointment to a European post is considered probable when the legation is raised to an embassy.

WHITE

You cannot afford to buy an automobile without investigating the many improvements of the 1908 White. Because the White is the ideal car for the man who cannot afford the expense of upkeep of a gasoline machine. The White is much more economical to maintain and operate.

A PERFORMANCE THAT MEANS SOMETHING TO THE PURCHASER OF AN AUTOMOBILE.

Two White Steamers started in the Endurance contest to Lake County and return last week and both finished with perfect scores. The gasoline competitors were forced to withdraw from the strenuous test. One of the machines was owned by J. J. Borree of Hayward, an amateur motorist, and driven by him, which substantiates the fact that an expert is not necessary to operate successfully and get the best results out of a White.

The following item was published in a San Francisco daily on the morning of the return trip:

Those who went up on the run as far as Witter are wondering what will be left of the three cars. The run up was supposed to be the easiest part of the journey, but it was all the cars could do to make the journey from McCray's to Witter on time and the six minute leeway saved some of them. There is no doubt that some of the cars will have to break their seals, and it would not be surprising if all of them came to grief before Sausalito is reached.

That the Whites did not falter demonstrates beyond a doubt the possibilities of the machine for the general requirements of the public and also offers abundant proof of the correct design, sound mechanical construction and general excellence of the White Steamer.

The White is not an ordinary car. It goes anywhere the ground can sustain its weight; there is no trail—no matter how stony or sandy or steep—which the White cannot traverse.

A GOOD POINT TO BEAR IN MIND

Our own branch to care for customers. No local stockholders. Beware of disinterested (?) advice. There are hundreds of unknown stockholders in local gasoline car agencies offering free advice.

CROWING COCKS AID IN ROUTING SAFECRACKERS

Draw Attention of Police Who Hurry to Scene of Robbery.

ALAMEDA Nov 30—It is now believed by the police that it was the crowing of two cocks and the screeching of other chickens in the butcher shop of Laplant at 1709 Lincoln avenue that saved the safe in the butcher shop from being dynamited yesterday morning Several of the residents in the neighborhood told the police yesterday that they heard the roosters crowing and W Kruger who lives opposite heard the report of the dynamite cap which failed to explode the dynamite The policemen were attracted by the noise of the roosters and the cap explosion and investigated finding the shop open

Kruger stated to the police that a number of residents were awaken by the crowing of the roosters The chickens would not remain quiet and it is believed that they frightened the burglars away

The police worked on the case all day yesterday but there was no clew which could lead to anything material Special precautions are being taken to see that no other safes are blown open Last night the policemen were given instructions to watch all business houses carefully During the winter months there are many undesirable persons about the city and all who can not give a good account of themselves will be compelled to leave town

HENEY HEARD BY AUDIENCE AT ALAMEDA

Repeats Former Lecture In First Christian Church.

ALAMEDA Nov 30—The tendency of the present day in allowing the centralization of wealth and also political power the need for the direct primary and the necessity of the bay counties in having a corporation from securing the water privileges of Northern California were the details which Francis J Heney treated in his lecture Civic Righteousness before a large audience at the First Christian Church last night

The speaker who was introduced by Mayor E K Taylor spoke eloquently of the high character of President Roosevelt and pride in his efforts for the election of principle and not party affiliations

He reviewed conditions in this city five years ago when the Southern Pacific Company got franchises I mean to get for the bosses which I do not want to see operate before the law and absolute state

The lecture was concluded with an appeal to the voters to pledge all political representatives to the due enforcement of the laws of the state Lincoln Roosevelt League he said

EXPERTS' FEES IN CONTROVERSY

Chicago Doctors Ask $100 a Day and Controller Holds Up $7000 of Claims.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO Nov 30 — Unless some definite arrangement is reached between State's Attorney Healy and Deputy County Controller James L Monaghan regarding the fees to be paid medical experts in criminal cases the next notorious murder trial in Cook county will find the State without the assistance of its staff of leading physicians pathologists and chemists who have figured in many huge cases

Asserting that a fee of $100 a day such as has been charged by these experts when in attendance at trials is excessive Monaghan has refused to pay witness fee warrants amounting to more than $ 000 claimed by physicians

The experts believe they are entitled to $100 a day and have announced that if any reduction is made the State will have to do without their service hereafter

BREWER AND TOWN CLASH

Raspillar Can Brew Beer in Berkeley, but Must Sell it Elsewhere

BERKELEY Nov 30—Joseph Raspillar proprietor of the Raspillar Brewing Company in West Berkeley whose license as a manufacturer of beer has been revoked by the action of the Board of Town Trustees states that his right to manufacture that beverage is in no way interfered with by the revocation of his municipal license as he hold a government license which he claims will enable him to continue operations In this assertion which he claims to have formed on the advice of attorneys he is contradicted by Assistant Town Attorney Koford

It makes no difference to me if the trustees refuse to grant me a new license the first of next year said Raspillar In fact I would just as soon they would not as I can operate under the federal license I possess and will be saved the payment of the manufacturer's license procured from the town of Berkeley

ADVICE OF ATTORNEYS

I am not making this statement blindly I know what I am talking about, as I have conferred with my attorneys in regard to the subject and they tell me I can operate under my federal license

The Board of Trustees not only can prevent Raspillar from selling beer in wholesale lots in Berkeley but if it sees fit can prevent him from manufacturing the product here said Assistant Town Attorney Koford

A municipality has the same right to prohibit the manufacture of beer as it has to prevent the sale of it The present liquor ordinance does not apply to the manufacture of beer or liquor but a special ordinance to that effect can be drawn up and passed by the board

Unless an ordinance were passed there is no question but that Raspillar would be allowed to continue to brew in Berkeley Under the present ordinance he will not be allowed to sell it here but he might deliver it outside the town limits

TO STOP SALE

As a matter of fact the Board of Trustees could pass an ordinance prohibiting the manufacture of beer within a certain distance of a school and the Franklin school is near the West Berkeley brewery This the trustees do not care to do however as they realize that Raspillar has a great deal of money invested in his business But the trustees will force him to stop selling beer in Berkeley

Just what the trustees propose to do in case I do not know but they could force Raspillar to move into the next county if they wished to do so"

NOT SINCE

A young man who was an enthusiastic lover of nature went to the seaside for a holiday and approaching a typical fisherman said

Ah I find how well you must know the face of nature and know it in all its many moods Have you ever seen the sun sinking in its robe of glory that it swallows on the horizon with fire? Have you ever seen the mist gliding down the shrinking hillside like a specter and yet excited and throwing out its arms ontinued Have you never seen my man the moon struggling to shake off the grip of the ragged rugged storm oud

DOG TO LOSE $1000 IN WILL

Judge Rules "Pup" is Not a "Person" and Cannot Own Property

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 30—Judge Coffey of this city has intimated that he will nullify the clause in the will of the late Nathan Bracket Graves in which he (Graves) stipulated that the interest on $1000 of his estate was to go to his favorite dog Pup to keep Pup in food Graves died at Brewood City and left an estate of $10 000 the greater part of which he bequeathed to his sister Mary E String of this city and to brother Maurice A String

The decision of Judge Coffey will be based on the grounds that a dog is not a person The case will be taken up when the holiday season is at its close as Graves will relating to his dog is as follows

I give and bequeath to my dog known as Pup the interest on $1000 which money to be invested and the interest used to keep Pup in food I wish that my sister Mary E Strong would take and care for him treat him kindly and when he becomes a burden have him killed in some painless manner and the $1000 that was set aside to keep him be equally divided between my brother Maurice A Strong and my sister Mary E Strong I think a great deal of Pup and I want it understood that Pup must never be sold or given away and whoever keeps him is entitled to the interest on the $1000 set aside to keep him

FATAL TO PUP'S CLAIMS

Judge Coffey holds that the section of the civil code which states that the absolute power of alienation cannot be suspended for a longer period than during the continuation of the lives of persons in being at the time of the creation of the limitation is fatal to the claims of Pup A dog is not a person yet the testator seeks to make $1000 inalienable for the life of a dog the judge pointed out

The clause of the will is further invalid because it comes in conflict with the constitutional provision which says that no perpetuities shall be allowed except for eleemosynary purposes and also because a dog being incapable of owning property cannot hold a beneficial interest

OKLAHOMA OBSERVES BUTTERMILK LINE

GUTHRIE Ok— The buttermilk line in the new State of Oklahoma is about fifty miles south of Guthrie said C A McNabb secretary of the Oklahoma Board of Agriculture The line passes east and west close to the towns of Purcell Chickasha and Hobart It marks a conspicuous difference between social usages and ideas of hospitality in the new State

North of this line buttermilk is used to fatten pigs It may be sought for in vain in hotels at lunch stands and on the sideboards of the best families A call for buttermilk is like asking in a briar patch on a dark night for the best road to the next town You are stared at in contempt and treated with derision should you become argumentative

South of the buttermilk line how ever things are different There milk always means buttermilk and you never get any other kind unless you ask for it stating carefully that you don't mean buttermilk It is served copiously at every meal, and no greater compliment could be paid you than to have a stranger ask you to drink buttermilk with him."

This morning Secretary Burrows recorded about fifteen members during the first month which has passed since the board finished its campaign The membership now stands at 400 and even on its own will be boosted by the city to at least one new member between now and January 1

The following letter has gone out to the citizens of Berkeley signed by Secretary Burrows

Dear Sir In going over the books of the Chamber of Commerce I have been recently elected secretary of that organization I find that many residents of this city have other than at best but a limited knowledge of the object of joining the organization I have mapped out a campaign to advertise the merits of membership lapse and become inactive The Chamber of Commerce proposes during the coming year to advertise in most unobtrusive work of its entire career New plans new enthusiasm new ideas have been injected into the organization and we propose to place Berkeley before the world in such a light that her importance can not be denied

As a citizen of Berkeley possibly you are receiving your letter here At present we have the same amount of space in your home that the size of your letter has in other cities We therefore ask you not to mail it to us but come in person as a member of the Chamber of Commerce

On Saturday night next the Chamber of Commerce will welcome its membership and friends at a banquet which has very appropriate for the necessary funds for public work The new organization is to center about a West Berkeley club house in a few doors of the Peoples National Bank building Investigators hold prove a slight full time will only be asked to devote a few hours to solicitation

IMPORT DOG SQUAD TO CAPTURE CRIMINALS

NEW YORK—We come to the dog Five Belgians keen on a scent and wise by instinct have arrived on the Vaderland to join the Finest Of course they will have to declare their allegiance to the laws and constitution before they can pass a civil service examination and obey police rules

It is not yet positively known what the dogs are to be assigned to but it is thought they will be put on the trail of escaped prisoners or to act as spies upon other policemen There is among the animals a feeling of suspicion and uncertainty on this point The mystery was intensified by the professional secrecy of Lieutenant George W Wirken head of the detective bureau who escorted the new members of the department to America He wouldn't allow them to speak to reporters or even look at them He said that for $ 00 he would not allow anyone to take pictures of them

WILL REST UP A BIT

Their school of instruction will be at Fort Washington Four of them were brought over the sea in two wicker baskets and one in a wooden crate They were not allowed to mingle with the other passengers They made themselves heard all the way their bowwows keeping accompaniment to the roars of the sea

Four of the dogs are a yellow cream in color and one—the fellow that had a cage to himself—is black All are curly They have high ears like those of French bulldogs The black dog is full grown about the size of a pointer but more stockily built Their noses taper to a point their eyes are snappy black and lips curl away from aggressive teeth

FAMOUS THIEF TRACKERS

It is said that the new sleuths cost the city $1000 but nobody will know until the Animal Police Department report comes out They are from Ghent where their kind first demonstrated their ability as sheep dogs Known on the continent as the "Berger Belge," they enjoy a splendid reputation as trackers of criminals and the police districts they patrol are indispensable Only give the animals the scent and they will overhaul any criminal attempting to escape

They are trained to recognize only a policeman's uniform Their method of making an arrest is to trip a fugitive by running between his legs and then jumping for help and holding the prisoner by the nape of the neck

MECHANIC STRUCK BY TRAIN LOSES BOTH FEET

With his left leg and right foot cut off, Matt Wilson a boilermaker was brought to the Receiving Hospital from San Pablo depot last night While attempting to cross the track near the San Pablo depot Wilson was struck by a freight train For several months past he has been employed on the pipe line being constructed near San Pablo His family lives in Kansas City Mo

Although conscious this morning he is in a serious condition and the hospital authorities state that he has only an even chance for recovery They state that he may recover from the shock although on this point they are not confident

Wilson said he did not see the train until it was upon him

IN FAVOR OF A TRUST

A Buffalo physician tells of two young friends in that city who entered simultaneously upon their respective careers of physician and lawyer Late one afternoon the newly made medico dashed into the room of his legal friend exclaiming Great luck old man Congratulate me Got a patient at last On my way to see him now Whereupon the legal light to be slapped his friend on the back saying Delighted, old chap Then after a short pause he added with a sly grin 'Say let me go with you? Perhaps he hasn't made his will'

There is something wrong with the bride who doesn't select a homelier girl than herself for her bridesmaid.

HOSPITAL HAS QUEER PATIENT

Man Arrested at Race Track Acts as if He Was in Hypnotic State.

Coleman who was arrested more than a week ago on the race track at Emeryville and taken to the county jail as a supposed insane character, was removed to the county infirmary this morning with the expectation that with care he would recover his normal state It is a peculiar case just since his arrest and later when he was placed in the insane ward of the Receiving hospital Jackman has been a strange patient Never unless he was spoken to did he have anything to say and for hours he remained in the same position

In the inner band of Jackman's hat was found a secret tip on a horse race After urgent questioning he said he was a bookmaker by night but had nothing further to say For a number of days he was kept in jail but no further information could be got from him He acted like a man in a hypnotic state

When Jackman was removed to the Receiving hospital there was no charge and at last Dr G G Reinle was called in He spoke to the man but received no answers The doctor asked that something be given the patient to eat and when food was brought Jackman refused it At last his mouth was opened and kept open while the food was put into it

FOLD TO CHEW

It was necessary to tell him after each time to "eat or chew" or swallow before he performed these ordinary functions Next after he was put in bed one arm would be raised over his head and it would remain there until put down by one of the attendants The same was done with his legs and he would lay in various difficult positions until his limbs were straightened out again

After these experiments were gone through Dr Reinle said that the man was suffering from a bad case of teria and it would be but a matter of time when he would be his normal self The supposition is that Jackman has been dosed

HE PROVED HIS ALIBI

The Sunday school superintendent was reviewing the lesson Who led the children of Israel out of Egypt?" he asked There was no answer

Pointing to a little boy at the end of the seat he demanded a little crossly Little boy who led the children of Israel out of Egypt? The little boy was ready to cry as he piped out with a quavering voice Please sir it wasn't me We just moved here last week We're from Missouri'—Circle

SERIOUS? WELL!

'Do you think? asked the sweet girl's mother that Mr Willikins is serious"

Serious? Ma, he's worse than that. He stayed here till nearly 12 o clock last night and anyone who had studied his face might have thought he was sitting up with a corpse —Chicago Record-Herald.

ANGERED OVER SANTA FE FINE

President Ripley Takes U. S. Judge Wellborn to Task.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—In a signed statement in the current issue of the "Railway Age," E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe road, has taken to task Judge Wellborn, of the United States court at Los Angeles, for having fined the railroad $330,000 for payment of rebates.

After giving a long explanation of the case to show that it was a mistake of a clerk and one in which the officers of the company were unaware, and saying he believes the court to have erred from a misunderstanding of the conditions and not from a desire to be sensational, President Ripley says:

"I refrain from comment, except to put before fair-minded business minds these questions:

"What incentive had the clerk to violate the strict orders from his superiors to conform to the law?

"If there was no incentive, is it more than a fair presumption that he did not intend to violate the law?

"If without incentive and without intent, he did under a strict technical construction violate the law to the extent of paying $400 should his employing company, the officers of which knew nothing of the transaction, be mulcted for $330,000?

"Does the punishment fit the crime?"

Mme. Nordica, Who Is Resting

CLAIM SINGER QUIT CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—There is a persistent rumor among the patrons of Oscar Hammerstein's Manhattan Opera House that Madame Nordica, the prima donna, has cancelled her contract with that manager and will not again appear in New York this season.

As evidence that this is so, attention is called to the fact that she has not appeared at the operat house this week, and that the casts for next week's performances, announced yesterday, do not include her name. Hammerstein stated last night that the absence of Madame Nordica was due to her desire for a rest and his desire to give every opportunity for the appearance of Madame Russ, his new prima donna. Madame Nordica is out of town.

FIRST TO WEAR OUT WITH AGE

Prescription Valued by Elderly People to Relieve Kidney Troubles.

The great majority of men and women at the age of 50 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are entirely free from the tortuous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys which have become clogged and sluggish, failing in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, settling about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folks the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

A noted authority in a recent article stated that he has wonderful success with the old-time "vegetable treatment." He states: "Of sixteen cases of bladder troubles and rheumatism which have been treated with this treatment only one very complicated case failed to fully yield to its remarkable influence. It is the most harmless treatment I have ever found to clean the system of rheumatic poisons; remove irritation of the bladder and relieve urinary difficulties of the old people. It is a true vitalizing tonic to the entire kidney and urinary structure, reinvigorating the entire system."

What he terms "old vegteable treatment" consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients which can be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost: Compound Kargon, one ounce, Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water.

This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and afflictions of the kidneys and bladder.

SOON TO HOLD CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on December 11-12, 1907, to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill a vacancy in the position of engineer draftsman (structural), at from $1600 to $1800 per annum, office of the supervising architect, treasury department, and vacancies requiring similar qualifications as they may occur in any branch of the service.

The duties of the position are confined to engineering problems in first-class building construction, particular attention being paid to fireproofing and designing in steel and in reinforced concrete. Applicants must have had not less than five years' practical experience, of which at least two years should be in either steel designing or construction work. A degree in civil engineering from a technical school of recognized standing will be considered as equivalent to not more than two years of the five years above mentioned. The minimum salary paid will be $1600, but those whose superior experience and ability justify it will receive more.

Applicants should at once apply either to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or to the secretary of the board of examiners at any place mentioned in the list printed hereon, for application form 1312. No application will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with the commission at Washington.

The commission also announces an examination on December 18, to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill a vacancy in the position of laboratory assistant in wood chemistry (male), at $720 per annum, in the forest service, department of agriculture, and vacancies requiring similar qualifications as they may occur in that service.

CLOUDS OF VOLCANIC ASH ARE FALLING OVER ALASKA

Nome and Seward Peninsula Covered Several Inches Deep From Eruption in Some Remote Region.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 30.—Nome and probably the entire Seward peninsula is shrouded in an ashy haze and the ground for miles is covered several inches deep with a fine gritty powder, which is believed to be volcanic ash.

The storm began several days ago, the dust blowing in from the ocean, but at first little attention was paid to the freak of nature, as it was expected that it would soon cease. Instead, however, the fall continued and after a day became so dense as to seriously interfere with out-of-door pursuits.

Miners coming in report that for miles the snow was so impregnated with the ashes that sledding was almost impossible.

The air is so full of ashes that breathing is difficult and the fine powder has been sifted in houses and business places to such an extent that it is thick on floors and on everything in the way of goods and household furniture.

It is believed that some one of the numerous volcanic islands, either between this coast and Siberia or, more probably, those islands in the Alaska peninsula or the Aleutian Islands, are again in eruption and that the ashy downpour is the result.

No serious results are anticipated, but much inconvenience is being caused by the peculiar storm.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS TO CONFER ON FINANCES

To Meet at the Call of Senator Aldrich to Prepare a Currency Bill to Present to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Senator Aldrich, chairman of the finance committee, reached Washington today and will go into conference with Republican leaders in the House and Senate on proposed currency legislation.

It is thought it will be some time before an agreement is reached which will permit the passage of a bill.

It is the hope of the administration and the Republican leaders in Congress that the general terms of a bill can be tentatively agreed upon, so that when the measure comes into Congress it will receive the support of Republicans as a party measure and regardless of individual opinions and prejudices.

There are four general propositions for solving the currency problem, each of which has its advocates. These propositions are as follows:

The creation of a central bank of issue; a central organization of existing banks; the issuance of additional circulation against securities other than United States bonds; the issuance of circulation upon general assets secured by a guaranteed fund.

In addition to these there is a host of weird financial propositions, more or less populistic in nature. There is a desire among Republicans to make it a party question so as to derive credit in the next campaign.

STEWARD WAS GERMAN BARON

Young Man on Banana Boat Tells His Secret to Captain Just Before Dying.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—When the little steamer Virginia, of the Hamburg-American Atlas service came into port yesterday she brought word of the death on board of Baron Waldemar Alexander Walter Rogalla Bierberstein of Rosoggen, near Stensburg, Eastern Prussia.

Behind this announcement is a story. When the Virginia sailed from New York there was among her stewards a young man known as Walter Bierberstein. When on the return trip, loaded with bananas, the ship neared Port-au-Prince, Bierberstein was taken ill and becoming rapidly worse, died. He was buried at Port-au Prince. Before the young man died he confided to Captain Felix Jach of the Virginia, who he was and gave him a pack of papers to be forwarded to his family in Germany. These papers, now in the German Consulate here, seem to prove the identity of the young man. He told his story to Captain Jach, but the officer refused to divulge it except to the German Consul.

UNDER ESTUARY TUNNEL PLANS

Engineers of County and Cities to Take Up Matter With Traction Company.

Plans for the construction of a tunnel under the estuary are being pushed ahead despite the refusal of the Southern Pacific to co-operate with the cities of Oakland and Alameda and the county of Alameda in the project.

When the matter first came up, City Engineer Turner of Oakland, City Engineer Poyzer of Alameda, and County Surveyor Haviland of Alameda county were appointed a committee to confer with the railroad people, with the object of getting their assistance in digging a tunnel which might be used by the railroad and street cars and as a driveway combined.

The three engineers met Assistant Engineer Wallace of the Southern Pacific Company a few days ago and went over the matter in a general way. Later they were informed that the railroad officials prefer to build their own tunnel. The matter is next to be taken up with the Oakland Traction Company. Plans have not been drawn in detail yet, but borings have been made and it has been found that the tunnel can be driven at no very great expense.

SEVENTY FEET DEEP.

It is proposed to drive a tunnel under the estuary, probably at Sixth street, which will carry the driveway, street car tracks and sidewalks from the Oakland to the Alameda side, about seventy feet below the surface of the low tide water line. This will permit the doing away with the bridges which cross the waterway.

The tunnel itself would be about 900 feet long, but the approaches, which for a track cannot be more than a four or five per cent grade, would have to extend fully 1400 feet on the Alameda side, where the marshes keep the surface comparatively level, and much more than that on the Oakland side, where the ground rises several feet.

Supervisor Kelley, the originator of the project, Mayor Mott of Oakland, and Mayor Taylor of Alameda, both of whom favor it, and the three engineers insist that the matter will be hurried along as fast as financial conditions of the communities and of the county will permit.

SAY UNCLE SAM SHOULD AID

Officials Believe Oakland is Entitled to Government Money as San Francisco.

The city council has determined to call upon the federal government for financial aid in carrying on the work of exterminating rats and safeguarding the city against the possibility of contagion. This decision was reached at an adjourned meeting held last night for the purpose of discussing the work accomplished thus far.

It was contended by several of the councilmen that the work of guarding against contagion in Oakland is a matter of national interest, as, if disease should gain a foothold here it would probably spread throughout the country. Therefore, they asserted, the government should bear a portion of the expense of stamping out the danger here. In San Francisco, it was pointed out, the government is paying three-fourths of the cost of the sanitary work.

Councilman Pendleton was strongly opposed to the appropriation of any more money for the purpose by the city, and he intimated that he did not believe there had ever been any well-established cases of plague in this city, or that there is the slightest danger of an epidemic.

"My position is that this city should expend no more money for this work after the first of next year," he said. "Then we should notify the United States government that if it wants the work continued it must bear its share of the expense, as in San Francisco. I doubt the wisdom of spending a great deal of money to kill rats in this city, when absolutely nothing is being done in this line by Berkeley and Alameda. Even if we succeed in stamping out the rats here the infection, if any exists, will spread to the rodents in the adjoining towns, and they in turn will carry it back here."

In replying to Councilman Pendleton, Dr. N. K. Foster, of the State board of health, stated that in his opinion the authorities of Berkeley and Alameda have been criminally careless in making no appropriations for sanitary protection.

Dr. Foster made a strong plea in favor of continuing the sanitary campaign, and Dr. H. L. L. Long, of the marine hospital service, who is in charge of the work in this city, read a detailed report, showing the expenditures up to date and giving an estimate of the probable cost of continuing the work in the future. Approximately $15,166.42 has been spent by the board of health in the special sanitation since the campaign was begun in September. The appropriation made by the council for the work was $27,000, so there is left at the disposal of the board of health at this time something less than $13,000. This will suffice to carry on the work for a few weeks after the beginning of the new year.

Dr. Long stated that there is at present a world-wide epidemic of the bubonic plague, which originated in China. The only portions of the world that are free from it are the eastern portion of Europe and the United States. He said the plague spreads slowly, but when the rats of a city become infected an epidemic is almost certain to result among the people, unless careful precautionary measures are taken. It takes about six months for the infection to gain a hold on the rats, and then it is immediately communicated to human beings. If the sanitary work in Oakland is stopped at this time, said Dr. Long, all the money expended will be wasted. He estimated that it would take about six months to stamp out the danger of an epidemic. He pointed to the fact that both Los Angeles and Seattle are expending large sums of money monthly for sanitary work.

Mayor Mott said he does not propose to see the lives of the people menaced, and that if the council refused to provide funds for carrying on the sanitary work he will appeal to the people for it.

"I am in favor of getting federal aid as soon as possible," said the mayor, "but in the meantime we must not allow the work to stop."

Councilmen Meese and Aitken supported the mayor's stand and announced that they were in favor of continuing the work at the expense of the city if federal aid cannot be secured.

After a petition from the Clinton Improvement Club was read requesting the council to continue the sanitary work, it was resolved to carry on the work until the present appropriation is expended and to request Dr. Long to notify the marine hospital service at once that financial assistance will be desired after that time.

FOR NATIONAL CLEARING HOUSE

Senator Platt of New York to Introduce Bill Providing For It.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—It is announced that shortly after Congress opens next week Senator Thomas C. Platt will introduce in the Senate a bill providing for the national incorporation of clearing houses. The bill is similar to those which failed of passage in 1896 and 1902. It will provide that one clearing house in each State shall have the power to issue currency to its members and shall maintain a reserve equal to that required of national banks. The passage of this bill, it is said, will give Congressional sanction to the plan of issuing clearing house certificates, which has been in operation since the recent financial stringency began.

Financial events of the week have pointed unmistakably to the effective progress making toward a resumption of normal banking and credit operations. The decline in the currency premium has been steady and the consciousness has been gained among the banks of the unusual strength of their position and the exclusive part played by distrust in withholding them from paying out cash and resuming regular operations. The stock market has reflected the improved sentiment in an irregular way, partly from reserve due to fears of premature conclusions as to the real improvement, and partly from the effect of belated liquidation in individual securities, which had been withheld during the crucial period of depression conditioned on later liquidation.

The Victim of Drink

NEEDS ORRINE TREATMENT.

Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and buries love and eventually destroys the family life.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family that is afflicted with this disease, you are indeed fortunate.

Drink cunningly destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves. Medical treatment is necessary to destroy the craving, and this Orrine will do.

It destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink will not be missed, also cures the deranged digestion, weakened nerves and other ill effects of excessive drinking, restoring the patient to perfect health.

The remedy is absolutely harmless, is thoroughly scientific and is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a registered guarantee entitling you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. Treatise on "How to Cure Drunkenness," free on request, in plain sealed wrapper. The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C.

GOOD NEWS

Many Oakland Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Oakland are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

George Furlong, teacher, 1907 University ave., Berkeley, Cal., says: "I am quite willing that you should use my name as an endorser of Doan's Kidney Pills. For a year or so I was subject to attacks of slight aching across my loins. If I took cold or did any very hard work the trouble would always be aggravated. Besides backache, other symptoms existed which showed very clearly that the kidneys were in a deranged condition. Then, too, they were highly colored and frequently accompanied with symptoms of inflammation. The good accounts I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills induced me to get this remedy. Its use proved most successful, as in a short time I was completely relieved from all the annoyances and there was a general improvement in every way. I feel myself well justified in vouching for the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills."

Tramp Evil Growing Serious.

The tramp problem is becoming serious again in California. Before the Spanish-American war the State was the winter refuge of the professional hobo. They gathered from all parts of the country as soon as the autumn leaves began to fall, in order to escape from the rigorous climate of other sections. Every winter witnessed an increased hobo invasion. This army of human drones kept the police busy and the jails full in every town.

The outbreak of the war brought welcome relief to the transportation companies, for the brunt of the Westward and Eastward oscillations of the tramps had to be borne by them, and the burdens of the police authorities throughout the State were reduced, for the recruiting officers got busy in the hobo camps and drafted them into the army. While the war lasted and for sometime afterward, the country at large was free from the tramp pest. But it has broken out this winter on the Pacific Coast, particularly in this State, in a more serious form than it ever was known before. All of the hobos of the territory east of the Rocky Mountains have apparently gathered here to worry the railroad companies, to scourge the larger communities with their presence and to depredate on the farmers of the interior valleys. Complaints of an extraordinary tramp invasion this winter are pouring in from the Columbia river to the Lower California boundary line An epidemic of crime has appeared simultaneously in all of he chief centers of population.

Some drastic measures will have to be adopted to get rid of the pest. The cities can protect themselves, in a measure, against the evil by reviving the chain gang, and rounding up every loafer and hobo who has no visible means of support and putting him to work repairing streets and roads and rock breaking. He can be made in that way to earn his board and lodging, and chain and ball and prison bars will keep him from depredating on society. Sentiment has no right to a place in the consideration of applying a remedy for the suppression of these social pests. Work is what the tramp studiously avoids. Compulsory labor is the last thing in his existence that he covets. It may not cure him of his lazy and criminal habits, but it will, for the time of his involuntary employment, keep him from preying on the community, and, when he regains his freedom, he will promptly migrate to some place where he is not required to pass through the same experience a second time.

The only way to clear this State from the tramp pest is to systematically organize against it, each community creating for itself a police system of public works to make the professional tramp earn his bread. Californians have been too generous toward the tribe. They have responded too freely to the appeal for a "hand out." If everybody shuts down on the practice, and if every community adopts a tramp cure system of labor and enforces it rigidly, hobos will shun the State as they now shun every community that refuses to harbor them or give indirect encouragement to chronic indolence.

The Czar's Autocracy Repudiated.

There is evidently new trouble in store for the Czar. When he summoned the first Douma he voluntarily relinquished autocratic powers and so stated in his proclamation to the people. The people and the Douma took him at his word. The latter acted on the theory that a constitutional government had been inaugurated and that the Czar's powers were thereafter limited and subjective in a measure to the people's will as expressed through the acts of their representatives in parliament assembled. The Douma proceeded, therefore, to discuss and legislate on internal affairs of popular concern in and out of the limits prescribed in the Czar's summons to it to assemble. Some of the measures adopted were, from the imperial standpoint, revolutionary, abolishing summary trials by court-martial and providing for the extinction of the imperial title in the crown lands and exclusive ownership in the larger landed estates by the Archdukes and the aristocracy and providing for an equal division of the same among the peasantry. It resulted in the abrupt dissolution of the Douma, a large number of whose scattered members reunited in Finland and endeavored to continue the parliamentary existence.

When the second Douma was summoned, the Czar cut down the suffrage, placing restrictions on its exercise, through which it was expected that results more in harmony with his own views of popular government would be obtained It was as much of a failure, in some respects, as the first, and in dissolving the second Douma the Czar, influenced by the reactionaries, resumed the title of the "Autocrat of all the Russias."

It then developed that Nicholas' ideas of a constitutional government were limited to the organization of a popular body with merely advisory powers to aid him and the imperial council in carrying on the government. It was to be a sham constitutional body—one which would cheat the people into believing that they had a voice in the government and serve as a cloak to carry out his personal will and the plans of the bureaucracy. The right of suffrage was, consequently, still further circumscribed. The peasantry were cut out entirely. In the third Douma, now in session, that class has no representation.

In his address from the throne at the assembling of the present Douma, the Czar emphasized his assumption of autocratic authority by purposely reasserting the title of "Autocrat of all the Russias." He evidently expected that it would meet with no opposition, or, if any opposition was offered, that it would not be strong enough to be effective. If so, he misjudged the composition of the Douma. The address excited a long and earnest constitutional debate. The Czar's resumption of autocratic authority formed the storm center of the debate. It ended by the Douma refusing to recognize it, for by an overwhelming vote of 246 to 112 its members rejected the use of the word "autocrat" in the reply to the imperial address, after which the latter was unanimously adopted. The third Douma has thus taken the firm stand that the claim to autocratic authority by the Czar is no longer tenable within the Russian state and is incompatible with the regime inaugurated by the Emperor in his manifesto of October 30, 1905, in which he voluntarily renounced autocracy. It means that the present Douma is as determined to assert its right to participate in the affairs of the government as was either of its predecessors and that it positively refuses to recognize the right of the Czar to arbitrarily resume the autocratic powers which he relinquished two years ago. The issue is once more clearly drawn. The present Douma may proceed with the consideration of popular reforms with more tact and wisdom than its predecessors, but it remains to be seen what course Nicholas will take toward such reformatory measures as will run counter to the exercise of his autocracy which their action on the reply to the address to the throne indicates conclusively they are sure to adopt. For a third time Nicholas is dallying with a national firebrand.

POLITICAL STRAWS OF NATION AND STATE

No Chance of Bringing Judge Alton B. Parker to Political Life This Time

One James E. Campbell, from Ohio, by the way, has constituted himself a committee of one to resurrect the political corpse of Judge Alton B. Parker and breathe into it the breath of life. In pursuance of his self-imposed task the man from Ohio has announced in all seriousness that Judge Parker would be an aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination

The unusual popularity of Mr. Roosevelt, of course, must be taken into consideration and the probability that he will not be next year's Republican candidate, but even with these facts before them, there doesn't appear to be the slightest Parker enthusiasm either among Democratic politicians or the rank and file of the party.

While different men have been discussed at different times in connection with the Democratic nomination, in the end the discussion always gets back to Mr. Bryan If Bryan wants the nomination, is the almost unanimous verdict, no other name will be presented to the convention.—Watsonville Register (Dem.)

From Now On It Will Be Interesting to Watch Mr. Bryan's Methods Closely

Now that Bryan is a receptive candidate for the Presidency, it will be interesting to watch his methods to be all things to all sections of the country In Nebraska "Ownership of Railroads" is a pet scheme. In New York and the South the Democrats will not endorse such doctrine It is up to Willie to harmonize and adjust these sections and get them to all "Rah for Bryan"—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

Both Bryan and Hughes Face Opposing Factions and Strong Influences

Bryan and Hughes stand for all that is best in their respective parties. More than that, they represent, in their private lives and their public records, all that is best in a republican form of government Why, then, should not the members of the Democratic and Republican parties take them at their word? If they are the two most popular men in their respective parties what is there to prevent them from being nominated? In the case of Governor Hughes the obstacle to his nomination is President Roosevelt and the federal machine which he controls. It is not necessary at this time to discuss the motives that prompt the President, himself an enthusiastic reformer along certain lines, to oppose Hughes in preference to Taft, a man who is more of an "organization" follower than a reformer The fact remains that Hughes cannot hope to obtain the Republican nomination without the influence of the President. On the other hand Bryan is opposed by some of the most influential men in the Democratic party and every effort is being made to side-track him for a more pliant man This is as well known as is the fact of Roosevelt's opposition to Hughes —Watsonville Register

Parker's Sneer Is Said To Clearly Display the ex-Judge's Cloven Hoof

Judge Parker's gratuitous sneering at Mr Bryan dims not the prestige of the latter while it serves to display the cloven hoof of the former and emphasize the mistake the St Louis convention made in 1904 in selecting a standard-bearer for the Democratic party.—Watsonville Register (Dem.).

Senator Seems Getting What He Was Looking for When He Made Remarks

When Senator Flint said that "California is for Taft" he was probably looking for information and was willing to take the punishment along with it. He's getting both, anyway, and more to follow—Whittier Register.

Are Using Roosevelt as Cloak for Their Schemes In the Sweet By and By

They who are talking Roosevelt the loudest, men like Burrows, Hoch, and Elkins, will not be found sincerely striving for his nomination in the national convention They are using Roosevelt's name and popularity as a cloak to their deep-laid schemes They will be the last to lead a "stampede" to Roosevelt, among the delegates Their sole purpose is to kill off Taft in the interest of Knox, or Cannon Secretar Taft has cut short his tour abroad in obedience to orders from the President He will return to Washington the middle of next month And it is a pretty fair guess that a peremptory quietus will be put on all third term talk —Los Angeles News

Says Senator Flint Can Do Worse Than Champion Statehood for Arizona

Senator Flint announces that he is ready to go up against the powers that be and introduce and champion a statehood bill for Arizona The California Senator has done worse things than this, and here's to the success of his effort. Whether it shall so result, depends somewhat on the activities of the Big Stick, but the President ought to be willing to let Arizona in, if only for the Rough Riders the territory furnished.

Arizona has more wealth and more population than most of the Western States, when they nailed their star to the flag True she cannot equal Oklahoma, for the combination of the two territories that are now merged in the one state boasts a population of a million and a half But Arizona feels just as big and we Californians vote unanimously for statehood Senator Flint is standing for a popular measure—in California at least We trust it may be so in Washington —San Bernardino Sun.

Wonders Where Lincoln-Roosevelt League Will Get Its Campaign Money

"Antolveus," the Stockton Mail's San Francisco correspondent, wonders where the Lincoln-Roosevelt League will get money with which to make its fight. From Rudolph Spreckels, we presume. It favors Spreckels for United States Senator to succeed Perkins, and we believe that no man has yet been able to withstand such arguments as the chaste and needy gentlemen composing the league will submit for Spreckels' consideration.—Fresno Sunday Mirror.

Japan Demands Retrenchment.

Japanese newspapers are beginning to clamor for a reduction of the national armament, as the cost of its maintenance is greater than the country can afford. The same cry is raised by the European burden-bearers of taxation. Great Britain has set the pace to the nations of the world by its persistence in expanding its navy which has been done, according to Lord Admiral Charles Beresford, as a cheap form of mercantile marine insurance, as it does not exceed a tax of 2 per cent on the value of the property employed in carrying the country's commerce. The policy may be satisfactory to the British government and to those interested in its merchant fleet, although the majority of British taxpayers are grumbling at the enormous cost of the naval establishment, but it has set an example for other nations to imitate which is threatening to bankrupt them. Italy has been brought to the verge of bankruptcy by it and Germany has been compelled to retrench on the Kaiser's ambitious naval program, because to carry it out meant unbearable distress to its people owing to the excessive taxation it threatened to impose upon them. Japan is now falling in line in the ranks of protestants, as the desire of the government to build up a navy of the first rank is a greater undertaking than its 45,000,000 inhabitants can hope to carry out. Japan is a country of limited resources notwithstanding the economy of living and the cheapness of the labor of its people, and when it shall have exhausted the financial results of the war with Russia it will be forced to call a halt, for its credit is now well strained to the breaking point.

There is possibly more truth than poetry in the assertion which Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, the exposer of the so-called Standard Oil "system" makes that "the gang" deliberately created the recent distress in the New York money market in order to destroy the influence of President Roosevelt. The fact is indisputable that after the destruction of F. Augustus Heinze and his associates through forcing the Knickerbocker Trust and Banking Company to the wall, J. P. Morgan, Rockefeller and their Standard Oil associates have, according to all accounts been reaping a financial harvest from the money stringency which was created by their operations in New York and afterwards spread all over the country by withholding from the West the balances to its credit held there in reserve for the movement of its crops.

The ups and downs of finance are peculiar. Now that the country has tided over a money stringency and gold continues to pour in, the financiers are anticipating a glut of the yellow metal by the beginning of January.

DEVIL SPIRITS

Made Husband Rip Up Furniture, Says Wife

Made Wife Throw Eight Men Out, Says Husband

NEW YORK Nov 26 — Devil spirits with decidedly turbulent characteristics are held responsible for the marital woes of Mrs Margaret M Von der Heide of 136 Garfield place who is suing her wealthy husband for a separation So pointedly has Mrs Von der Heide referred to Mrs Pepper Vanderbilt in her papers filed with the court that it is considered certain that the psychic medium recently given great notoriety in the suit of Miss Minerva Vanderbilt against her father will be called as a witness for Von der Heide

While Mrs Von der Heide does not name Mrs Pepper Vanderbilt as having been a friend of her husband she alleges that after attending the spiritualistic meetings of the Boston medium he would return home irritable peevish and bad tempered and treat her and her two young daughters most cruelly

Von der Heide has replied to his wife's action with a counter suit for absolute divorce in which he names Youth of 18 as co-respondent The young man is Edward Grey Dooley of 2 Hancock street who is learned immediately departed for Morristown N J after Mrs Von der Heide's action was begun Mrs Von der Heide's age is thirty eight years

SPIRITUALISM CHANGED HIM

After Von der Heide began attending the spiritualistic meetings of Mrs Pepper he was changed man said Mrs Heide His mind was filled with strange ideas and in a short time his whole appearance changed

From a quiet reserved man he changed at times into a veritable demon His shouts of anger resounded throughout the neighborhood and more than once friends of ours have rushed into the apartment to find out what the matter was He would take hold of chairs and pull them apart in his strange frenzy Although he never struck me or the children I am sure that something dreadful would have happened to us if we had not gone away

After he calmed down he would explain that there were good and bad spirits and that sometimes the bad spirits or devils he called them would take possession of him

I am not the only one who was afflicted with devil spirits Von der Heide said When my wife left me we were living in Downing street She took my chairs with her I have made two attempts to get my property with writs of replevin but have been unable to do so

The first time a marshal and his men visited the apartment in Garfield Place the door was barred against them and they could not get in

The second time a marshal and another man got inside her apartment by saying they had come to inspect the fire escapes Six more men then followed them inside making eight men in all Single handed my wife threw them out that is 'devil spirits I'd like to know what they are

"18-YEAR OLD AFFINITY"

The real truth of the story is this I didn't stand for my wife's 18 year old affinity She wanted him to board with us but I couldn't see it that way When we moved from Downing street the first thing she did was to take him in for a border

This latter statement is admitted by Mrs Von der Heide who says she was forced to take young Dooley in to board to secure enough money to buy food with

My husband refused to pay anything but the rent after we parted she said

The imputation cast upon her by her husband regarding the furniture is absolutely denied by Mrs Von der Heide She claims all the furniture as hers and says she will resist any attempt to take it away

The two daughters Margaret, 17 years old and Gladys 15 are with their mother and say they will stand by her to the end It is claimed by the eldest girl that young Dooley is her sweetheart and she says her father's charge against the young man is absurd

SUED FOR A FORTUNE

About three years ago Mrs Von der Heide was before the public when litigation was begun over the estate of John C Schutte who died on May 11 of that year at 324 East Fifty first street Manhattan leaving real estate valued at $150 000 and $90 00 in cash in banks

Mrs Von der Heide a niece of Schutte sued in the Supreme Court to determine her rights in her uncle's estate She claimed his entire fortune subject to the dower right of his second wife Lena Schutte under an agreement which she alleged that he and his first wife Albertina Schutte made in 1871 to adopt her and leave her all their property

Mrs Von der Heide received the name of Margaret M Schutte and was educated as the daughter of her uncle and aunt who she believed were her parents She did not know the truth until he was 14 years old Mrs Von der Heide lost the suit At the age of 18 she married Von der Heide

Elderly Women Cruel to Young Through Jealousy

(BY PEGGY QUINCY)

Older people older women particularly have a way of making young people and conspicuously the members of their own sex feel small and ill at ease In fact they treat them sometimes almost as though they were in the criminal class or at least of a very questionable character Whatever prompts them to act as they do may not be laid to any one motive

Several motives stir them though probably the most common one is jealousy Jealousy of the youth the freshness and the enthusiasm of the young people growing up beside them whom their own experiences in life should influence them to encourage instead of lishearten

I have been shocked and made angry many times at the ease with which older women speak the word which means the utter loss of reputation for a younger woman Somehow they seem to have more consideration for women of their own years and older but a younger woman specially if she be prepossessing and successful in a line of work in which they are more or less interested need expect no mercy from them for she will get none If there is a thread by which they may hang her

Older women through worldly wisdom gained through ugh years could be veritable guide posts to the future happiness and success of young people if they would but take the right means

BRIDE, 78; GROOM, 32

SANTA CRUZ Nov 28—A sensation was created in the County Clerk's office recently when Harry Andrews a young man giving his age as 32 years applied for a license to marry Betsey R Braden aged 8 years Mrs Braden is one of the oldest and wealthiest women of the county and when Andrews applied for the marriage license the woman deputy in the Clerk's office informed him that the present law made it necessary for one of the contracting parties to make the application not realizing that Andrews was the groom to be

Andrews never made his identity known until he appeared after the dinner hour with his intended bride when the clerk realizing the mistake she had made issued the license without further question This is Mrs Braden's third matrimonial venture her first alliance being with a man whose age was as much in advance of hers as the present groom's is lacking

CORSETS Most Important Part of a WOMAN'S DRESS

French women are recognized everywhere as the most chic of women and they themselves attribute a large share of their style to well fitting corsets Many of the haute monde are more particular about the make of their corsets than their gowns they will search Paris and pay a fabulous price to get what they want Speaking on this subject a few weeks ago one of the best dressed women in Paris said

I consider my corset the most important part of my wardrobe I can stand an ill fitting glove or shoe but I find an ill fitting corset an abnomination It took a year to come upon a good corset maker but at last I found one I gladly pay her $50 for a corset I consider them cheap at that they support me like an armor and still they are as soft as a glove I keep seven on hand three new ones and possibly four from the season before I take more pains in putting on my corset than any dress and I handle them with more care than the finest bric-a-brac in our home

$1000 FOR CORSETS

This woman's idea is the one commonly held by French women There are many who pay $50 for a corset and think anything below $18 too cheap to consider They will rather wear a hat or gown a second season than a corset after it loses its shape Some of the best dressed women buy a dozen a year and spend from $700 to $1000 for this article of dress

Most of the well groomed women attribute their trim figures to well fitting corsets, and they carry out this theory by putting them on little girls when they are 10 years old But it is not only my lady of fashion— women of modest means will deprive themselves of many other comforts to buy expensive corsets As a French woman told an American

You Americans will pay $100 for a gown and $5 for a corset, but I should rather pay $80 for my suit and be well groomed. It makes a figure trim and keeps a woman young, and how dreadful is the thought of growing old."

The shopgirls likewise count their corsets an important part of their toilet They often get their corsets by trimming hats or making gowns in exchange When this is not possible they will scrape and save to pay the price One shopgirl says

It is my corset which keeps me in shape I cannot afford to get heavy if I wish to sell hats A neat figure is as necessary as taste

Many a woman begins as a dressmaker and after she has gained experience fitting waists she starts out to make corsets Dressmaking serves as a valuable apprenticeship though they say the good corset maker must know a great deal about anatomy

One of the leading corset makers in Paris says that many of the corsets made today are more injurious than those made some years ago because they make women look small by cramping the organs A good fitting corset is an easy fitting corset It allows the wearer to bend in any direction and to work at any occupation without getting tired It does not compress the organs nor push them out of place It gives the diaphragm plenty of space and allows respiration to go on naturally

BIG ESTABLISHMENTS

In Paris corset makers hold rank with milliners and dressmakers Many have handsome establishments in the streets where rents are high and make $5000 to $10 000 a year Girls working in these establishments get $12 to $15 a week and more which is more than they can earn in many other lines of work American women are also beginning to believe in the gospel of well fitting corset Many Americans who go to Paris to shop give as much time to good fitting corsets as to hats and gowns They often buy a half dozen corsets and spend from $500 to $600 on that part of their toilet

'The French women are teaching all other women that to be well groomed means to be well corsetted We are coming to believe this'

New York women give great care to their corsets and pay as high as $80 and $100 a pair Many of these corsets are trimmed with real lace and are as handsome as lingerie blouses Several women in New York make from $ 000 to $10 000 a year in their establishments

Western women are following in their train There are corset makers in Chicago who have more orders than they can fill and who clear $ 000 a year One of the leading establishments says

Yes there is much money for corset makers if they know their business but it requires years of experience natural ten and ability to stick Whether women have corset made to order or buy the ready made they are willing to pay more for corsets than ever before because they want trim figures which the largely attribute to the right sort of corset

Ladies, Go Up in Balloons if You Would Rest Your Agitated Nerves

Some ladies who have tasted the delights of ballooning declare that once you have become used to its novelty voyaging in the air is very restful to the feelings The purity of the atmosphere relief from all loud noises and though it is quite open air complete absence of buffeting breeze are said to prove highly beneficial to woman's nerves

Mother's Take Notice

The mother of naughty children can hardly expect much attention socially for there is always a fear that she may bring one of the spoiled darlings with her when she comes to make an informal visit

FEARS HIS BLACK EYES

MISS SARAH DEUTSCH THE NEW YORK WOMAN WHO CAUSED A SENSATION BY SAYING THAT A BURGLAR AFTER ROBBING HER HOME, COMPELLED HER BY THE POWER OF HIS BLACK EYES TO FOLLOW HIM SHE WAS ARRESTED AND PLEADED NOT TO BE COMPELLED TO FACE HIM IN COURT BECAUSE HE HAD HYPNOTIC INFLUENCES OVER HER

HAVE NEW GLOVES WELL STRETCHED

When buying gloves it is wise always to see that they are well powdered and stretched, as this facilitates matters when putting them on for the first time It is of great assistance also to slightly wet the thumb and forefinger while slipping the fingers in turn into their various positions.

Wretched, Alone, Once Wealthy SOCIETY Woman Dies in Little Shack

Drinking Husband Ruined Her Life.

But She Loved Him To The Last

DENVER —Alone and suffering from a deadly ailment a feeble woman whose nights were fraught with the anticipation of horrors and the darkness of fear there was one marauder that Mrs Georgiana Horton could not keep from entering her wretched broken little home—death

Surrounded by the direst poverty and the filth that resulted from the fact that old age had rendered her unable to properly care for herself Mrs Horton once heiress of a wealthy Cleveland Ohio capitalist was found dead Wednesday afternoon upon the floor of the kitchen of her hermitage where she had fallen during the previous night

The little frame structure which rests below the level of the street at 26 Galapago street bore upon its exterior nothing to suggest the unhappy woman who lived as a recluse within its discolored walls surrounded by the hoarded fancies of old age and delusions It told nothing of the nights she had guarded her little wealth and possessions or that she had once been daughter of John Cook a man of wealth and affluence in Cleveland Ohio There in her youth she was one of the most beautiful society girls of the city and her marriage in the pomp and beauties of a great church wedding was the subject of conversation months after it had passed

MOVED WEST

Some thirty years ago Mrs Horton moved to Denver with her husband a man who had dissipated the greater part of their fortune in the East by drinking and came west to try and forget his mistakes

The Hortons purchased a number of lots and erected a house Eight years ago Horton died and though she realized that his death had taken a great sorrow from her life because of his final return to drinking it did not compensate the loneliness following the death of the man she had always loved devotedly From that time on she had little if anything to do with her neighbors or friends treating them coldly when they called making them stay in her kitchen and becoming frantic if they evinced a tendency to enter the other rooms of the little dwelling

After the body had been removed a search was instituted for a will or any other property which might be hidden about the premises The searchers found a bedroom without carpet upon the floor and torn curtains of uncertain age partially covering the windows Upon every side were packing boxes filled with useless articles carefully wrapped in old newspapers and placed away

USELESS JUNK

Another room was filled to overflowing with hundreds of empty boxes including paper shoe boxes cigar boxes and thread boxes placed in neat piles which covered the entire floor space and reached almost to the ceiling The boxes in the bedroom contained clothing and clean linen and there were hundreds of empty bottles and dishes stored away There were stacks upon stacks of old newspapers and clippings filed away none of them bearing upon one subject but each neatly arranged

In the kitchen and pantry were tins filled with small packs of buttons all boxes filled with jet beads and other knickknacks Old shirt sleeves that had been cut off for some purpose were neatly folded up and placed in a stew pan or skillet Small balls of string were to be found everywhere and it seemed as if nothing that came into the house was let out again

Mrs Horton owned the house she lived in and several other lots in that vicinity which were part of the original holdings but it is thought the only other property she possessed were several watches some jewelry of old fashioned make and perhaps a little money carefully hidden

The Bulwark

Upon a day I was assailed by Fear
But lo I love came and whispered in mine ear
I am beside thee be thou comforted
And I cast forth that dread

Upon a day I was beset by Doubt
And vainly strove my tireless foe to rout
Until Love murmured courage have thou faith'
When Doubt was but a wraith

Upon a day I was engirt by Hate
And impotent and dumb could not abate
The dire beleaguerment until Love spoke
When the dark meshes broke

Abide O sovereign sacred and supreme
Guard thou my waking warder thou my dream'
I shall not shrink at even Death's grim will
If thou be bulwark still

What Man Would Marry Her?

She Favors Education

The Empress of Japan is a great advocate of the spread of education in her husband's dominions

THE MEDDLER

It is still the day of the limerick The merry lines go echoing through England and the limerick is very much abroad in our own land No one knows quite how it came to receive its name perhaps from a place called Limerick in Ireland and indeed many limericks carry a suggestion of Irish wit and humor This Thanksgiving limerick in New York which carried off the prize last week reads as follows

'Said a Turkey On Thanksgiving Day
The principal role that I play
Is fine I confess
But never the less
The meal is on me I should say''

Her first appearance in Grand Opera in London will be in the role of Gilda in Rigoletto

THE YOUNGS IN HONOLULU

Mr and Mrs Alexander Young and especially Miss Ethel Young have many interesting friends here who are always interested in everything relating to them Many of us have happy memories of the generous hospitality when here and the many friendships made will last for time to be endured

One of the Honolulu papers brought the news of their arrival and among other interesting paragraphs regarding it for the following

The Country Club was the most popular place in the city Then must have been hundreds of carriages and motors at the popular resort Miss Bertha Young in her bright gown was a conspicuously smart figure A bevy of pretty girls were with her in pleasant to see Mr Alexander Young again guiding his big motor car down the Waikiki road after an absence in San Francisco of a few weeks His daughters Mrs McNab Mrs Howard and Miss Bertha Young as well as his son's wife Mrs Ariel Young returned with him and with the exception of the latter who is at her own residence on King street are at the Waikiki villa of the Youngs Mrs Howard who has been so desperately ill is fast recovering her normal condition of health and Mrs McNab who has been away from the islands for four years is looking even prettier than ever Dr McNab her husband may come out in December and they will return together in January Miss Bertha Young's trip has not only improved her health but she is looking unusually well

There are two important additions to the Young and Von Hamm households in the shape of a finely bred Boston bull dog of pedigree stock and a magnificent specimen of a pure white Angora cat These aristocratic members of the animal kingdom held quite a reception the other day and looked with bored condescension upon the attentions of their devoted admirers

BARGAIN COUNTER IN WOMAN'S EXCHANGE

The ladies in charge of The Women's Exchange announce a bargain counter which they hope may prove a welcome addition to their holiday offerings

The bargain counter offers many attractions for one may buy a gift here not because it is cheap but because it happens to be just what one may want All of us know full well that these are strenuous days that men all over the nation are very worried over his terrible money stringency But most of us hope that it will not affect the work of the Women's Exchange for so many women are dependent for the holiday cheer on the work of their hands

Almost every shopper can find something worth while at the bargain counter of the Women's Exchange so that it bids fair to be most popular

HAIR DRESSING IS TOPIC OF INTEREST

Hair dressing styles are now of the most absorbing interest In New York one reads that the pompadour is not at all decreased in size but now the hair is drawn somewhat further forward on the forehead and the sides are puffed out softly so as to give rather a flat effect With the hair so soft and full upon the head a larger ornament can be worn than could have looked well even last year The gourah feathers are used in all possible combinations of ostrich tips

Jewel studded combs are still worn Rhinestones are somewhat out of favor and colored stones as turquoise and pink coral are rarely seen set in either tortoise shell or amber

Carved tortoise shell and amber make altogether the smartest back combs

Any one fortunate enough to possess an old carved shell back comb is indeed in luck and if such an heirloom is not to be found then it must be imitated as exactly as possible with the antique carving

Among the old combs the widest are the best but even the narrow curved very high shell combs are considered a most precious possessions and are most carefully guarded when not in actual use

Flower wreaths are not worn at all this year

FRITZI SCHEFF A DELIGHT

Fritzi Scheff s always a delight As some one aptly said she is the soubrette eternal and supernal Age can not stale nor custom wither her To be sure she has not yet had much age to wither her for she is still a young woman and slenderer than ever —that is she is slenderer to the outward eye As a matter of fact she is much plumper as witness her bust and arms but she is marvelously corsetted as only a Frenchwoman is ever corseted The fat is laced down very far and is supposed to be out of sight in some costumes it is and in some it is not There are tricks in all trades but more than the usual number in Fritzis

Mademoiselle Scheff is just as fascinating as ever with all her charming little ways bright smile and really fetching eyes Beautiful arms and hands and sprightly legs she has though she is not pretty In her fancy dress costume with the web like silk stockings the short fluffy skirts the spangled bodice with the rhinestone spider over the lungs and the cunning black cap with its enormous white aigrette she was as daint a figure as could be imagined The music of the play is fairly good and the lines a good deal better than usual The men are exceedingly good especially Leo Mars a handsome little fellow who does the French artist to perfection and sings two topical songs with the best possible comic opera manner He is worth seeing all by himself is fascinating handsome little Mr Mars Our old friend Josephine Bartlett sister of Jessie Bartlett Davis is in the cast as is William Pruette who used to be at the old Tivoli and Gillingswater who acts a promoter from Keokuk Iowa, and does it most excellently The wife of the promoter is also excellently played with a middle West accent and the lady from Ioway has one song and dance in the last act— Our Culture Club in Ioway —which is well worth hearing

The play is beautifully staged and mounted with at least fifty handsome hats in the millinery shop in the first act besides the glorious three which Miss Scheff herself wears

Smart audiences greeted Miss Scheff on both sides of the bay The first night at the Van Ness Theater saw a house with not a single vacant seat Every box was occupied In one was a notable theater party which included the beauty of last year and the beauty of this Miss Mary Keeney and Miss Alexandra Hamilton, and both sitting as demurely side by side In the front of the box as though they were not conscious of being the beauty show of the evening Mr and Mrs Thomas Eastland had a theater party, entertaining Dr and Mrs Rothschild (Lucy Jackson) and Miss Mary Jolliffe. Mr and Mrs Thomas H Williams entertained Mrs. E. L. G. Steele and Miss Muriel Steele Mr and Mrs Rudolph Spreckels were in a box with Mr and Mrs Athern Folger Mr and Mrs William Hinckley Taylor and Mr and Mrs Tom Magee Mr and Mrs Fred McNear entertained two friends in a box In the audience were Mr and Mrs William Lynham Shields who came down from the country for Mrs de Young's tea, Mrs Ernest L Johnstone Miss Louise Boyd Miss Helen Baker Dr Harry Tevis George de Long Benjamin Lathrop and Judge Lawlor

THE DE YOUNG TEA

The tea given by Mr and Mrs M H de Young to introduce their third daughter Miss Kathleen was one of the largest and most distinguished affairs of the winter It was the event of last Saturday though the charity tea for the Maria Kip orphange also had its crowd and made something over three hundred dollars

The de Young house was beautifully decorated with palms and cut flowers and is an excellent house for entertaining as its many large rooms allow the crowd to spread so that there is never a crush save perhaps in the dining room where there is always a crush at teas In the small pink reception room at the left of the entrance Mr and Mrs de Young received with their daughter between them Never has Miss Kathleen looked so pretty She is a charming girl cultivated very accomplished and with vivacity and warmth and geniality of manner—things most desirable in debutantes who sometimes make the mistake of affecting coldness and hauteur In their effort to be vere de vere they merely succeed in being thought stupid or disagreeable Miss Kathleen wore a beautiful fluffy Parisian frock and Mrs de Young wore a handsome French importation of gray The room where the receiving party stood was a bower of flowers—the bunches presented to the debutante Orchids in orchid glasses covered one side of the pink velvet-hung wall and the receiving trio stood beneath a bower of American Beauty roses The effect was delightful

In the art gallery Miss Mary Deane and Miss Helen and Constance de Young stood Mrs Deane was stationed in the main drawing room and the rest of the receiving party was scattered throughout the house although Mrs Eleanor Martin garbed in a handsome creation of black and white lace stood at Mrs de Young's right

In the receiving party was Mrs Frederick McNear in an orchid colored gown Miss Genevieve Walker in a pretty flowered chiffon with deep rose flowers, Miss Alexandra Hamilton in lavender liberty satin Miss Helen Baker Miss Augusta Foute Mrs Vincent Whitney in all-over white lace Mrs Oscar Long in white lace Mrs Jack Wilson in dark gray Miss Lucie King Miss Edith Simpson J J Deane and Mrs J J Deane.

In the receiving party men had been invited to stay for dinner and afterward there was informal dancing in the ballroom At no tea of the winter have there been more young men or more handsome gowns than at this one. THE FIRST SHIPMENT

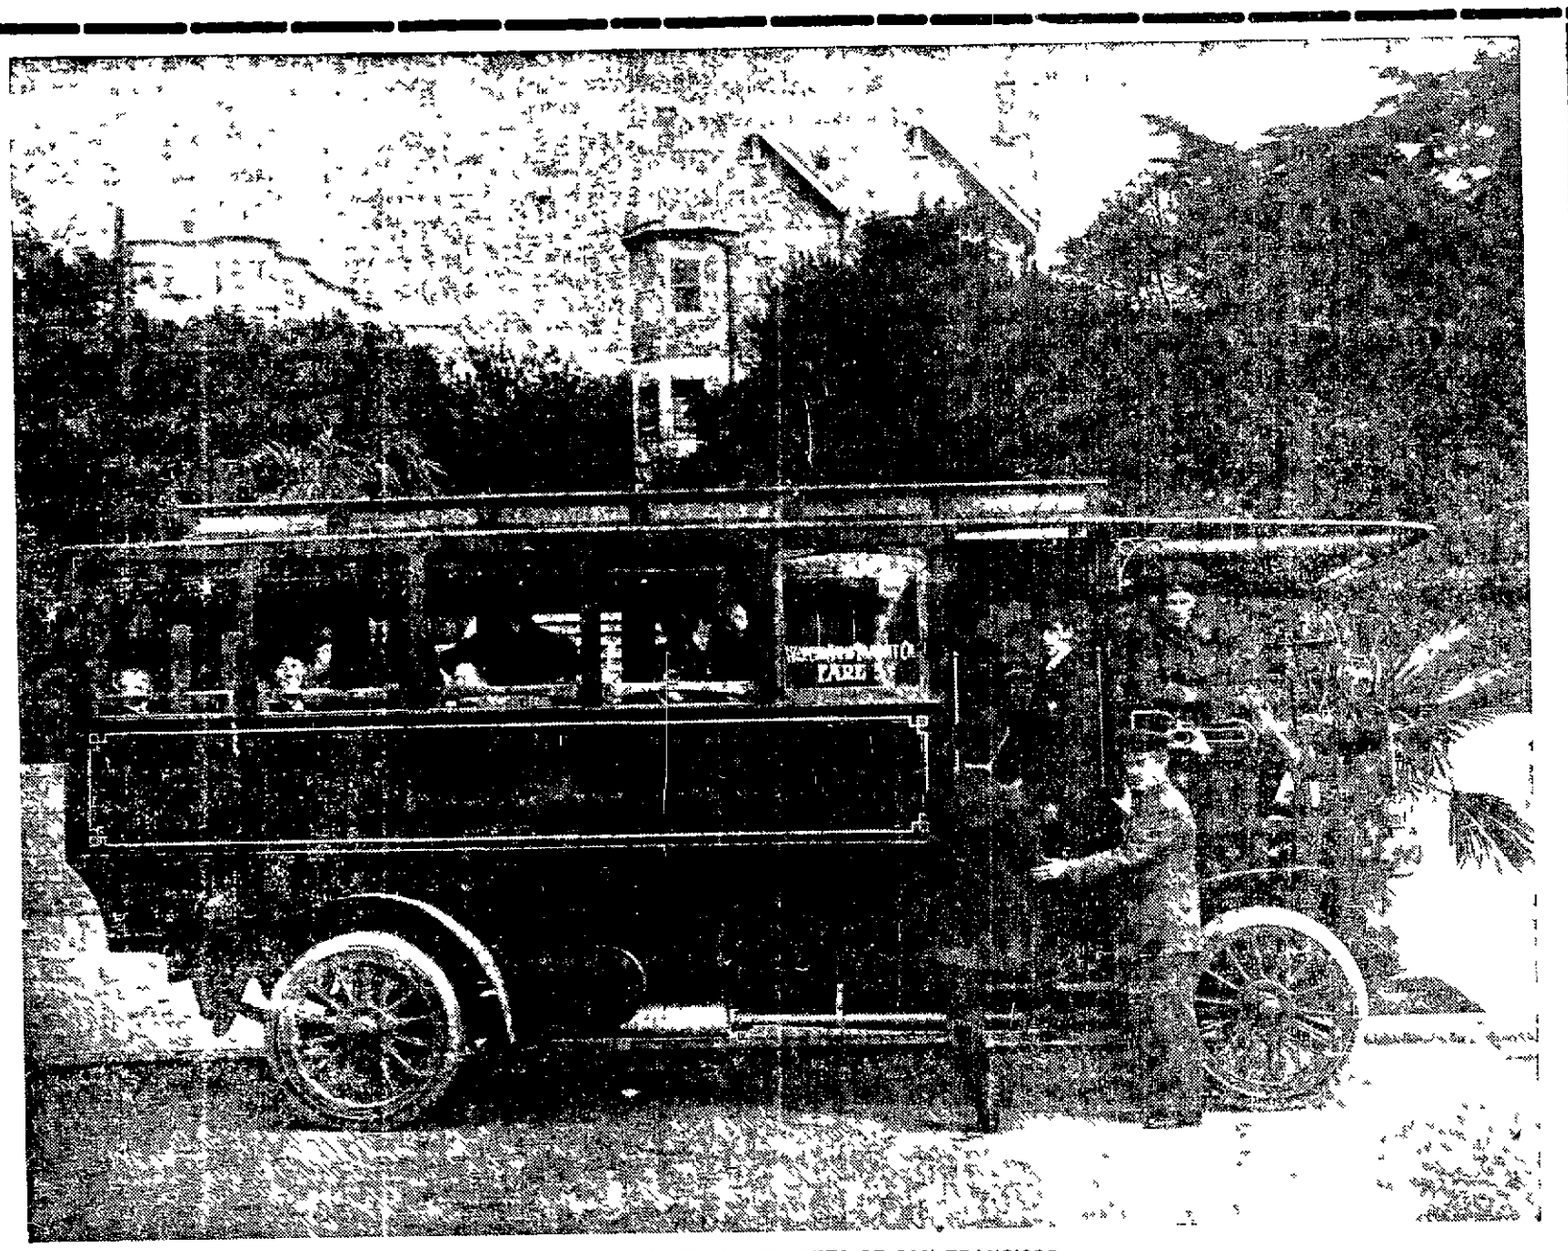
Of The Western Rapid Transit Company's Motor Buses Arrived Friday Evening and was

Immediately Put Into Public Service



ONE OF OUR BUSES ON THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

If you have not ridden in one of our buses, arrange to do so at once and be convinced of the practicability of this Auto Bus System we have started

The Western Rapid Transit Company was organized and incorporated under the laws of the State of Nevada for the purpose of installing a Motor Omnibus system on the principal streets of San Francisco, at a 5c fare

Motor omnibus systems are now in operation in all of the principal cities of Europe and many of our larger Eastern cities, and have proven a tremendous success

Los Angeles has just organized a private company with a subscribed capital of $1,000,000, irrespective of the fact that they have the finest street car system in the United States

Why should not a Motor Omnibus system be a success in San Francisco where the street car system is totally inadequate, and through incompetency of its employes, endanger the lives of our residents every day?

The motor buses the Western Rapid Transit Company are going to operate are handsome in appearance, easy in motion, simple in carrying capacity, seating thirty people comfortably, and are operated by careful and tried men

We will not let an operator handle our car until he is thoroughly acquainted with the mechanism of the car. For this purpose we have created a school, superintended by our own engineer

Our cars were somewhat delayed owing to the first car being specially constructed on lines entirely new in the motor omnibus line which combined with freight delay caused some adverse criticism which emanated from those people who feared competition

Before organizing this Company its officers studied the omnibus systems operating in different European cities and found that wherever motor bus systems were in operation they were returning large dividends to their stockholders

One Company in London alone "The Daimler Motor Company" has paid 22 per cent in dividends this year The nineteen other companies paying between 5 and 20 per cent to their stockholders

This should demonstrate to the investing public that Motor Omnibus systems can be operated much more economically than electric systems

The Western Rapid Transit Company is offering for public subscription stock in their Company at $2 50 per share Ten thousand (10,000) shares were allotted at this price and just as soon as this allotment is subscribed for the price will immediately advance

Subscriptions for stock will be received on the installment plan, one quarter down and the remainder in four monthly payments

For further information about this Company's plan we will be glad to entertain callers at our office or cut out the coupon below and we will communicate with you

Our methods and books are open to all Investigate our plans and officers

Mrs. Bradley Sobs at the Sight of Fatal Weapon

Mrs. Bradley Listening to the Arguments of Her Lawyer in Her Behalf.

AVERTS HER EYES FROM PISTOL WITH WHICH SHE KILLED SENATOR BROWN

Impassioned Oratory Marks the Opening Arguments for and Against the Accused Woman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Passionate oratory marked the proceedings today in the trial of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, charged with the shooting and killing of former Senator Arthur M. Brown of Utah in this city last December.

The court room was unable to accommodate the great number of people who went to witness the last scenes of the tragedy that has attracted national attention for nearly a year. Many of the attendants were women and some of them arrived at the court room long before the doors were opened in order to secure desirable positions from which to witness the events of the day.

Mrs. Bradley went into court as if fully alive to the importance of the proceedings. She took her accustomed place where she could be plainly seen by the jurymen and very near her counsel.

BOTH SIDES ARGUE.

The day was devoted to arguments by attorneys on both sides of the case. Assistant District Attorney Turner opened for the government and he was followed by Attorney Wells of counsel for the defense.

Turner proceeded in a matter of fact way to define the law in relation to the crime committed and followed with a review of salient incidents of the testimony.

While he was describing the scene of the killing of Brown, an attendant delivered to the district attorney a package containing the pistol which had been used by Mrs. Bradley. As the weapon was uncovered and laid in a conspicuous place near the speaker, Mrs. Bradley lowered her head and her frame was shaken by a convulsive sob. Closing her eyes, she remained as if in a stupor, only occasionally looking toward the jury and watching their faces.

NEARLY FAINTS.

Wells' argument was so impressive that Mrs. Bradley nearly fainted. Judge Powers, one of her counsel, sought to divert her mind by talking to her, but she brushed him away and listened closely to what Wells was saying. Wells concluded at 12:47 and court adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Turner characterized as dangerous the woman who considered a man not her husband more sacred to her than does the wife herself. He said that even a horse doctor could have discerned that Mrs. Bradley, when she shot Brown, was not suffering from toxic insanity. He insisted the jury should cast aside all sentiment and treat the case exactly as if a man had done the shooting. He exhibited the defendant's pistol to the jury and the hand bag with it.

ATTORNEY OVERCOME.

Turner reviewed the evidence of insanity and declared that only the most trivial incidents could be cited to justify such a theory. He insisted that the jury should discard all thought of the mistreatment she had received from Senator Brown as it could have nothing to do with their decision. As he proceeded the attorney turned slightly pale and leaning on a nearby table, paused and then sat down. He had been overcome by emotion and a nervous shock. He left the room for a few moments. Meanwhile the court suspended the proceedings until he returned and resumed his argument, which was eloquent and at times impassioned.

Turned concluded at 12:10 with the statement that Mrs. Bradley's act was that of a sane person deliberately planned.

OPENS FOR DEFENSE.

Robert Wells then opened for the defense. He told the jury that the defense had not submitted its case on the "unwritten law" but on the law of the land which safeguarded the defenseless woman.

Do You Recognize This Man?

He is John T. Smith, footpad, shot in running fight, after holding up saloon in San Francisco.

He is supposed to be the murderer of Policeman George W. White of this city, who was shot down by a footpad last Sunday night.

ROOSEVELT IS FIGHTING MAD

ld by Senator Scott That He Is Responsible for Money Crisis.

ASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—One of livelliest rows that ever occurred e White House took place today een President Roosevelt and Sen- Scott of West Virginia because lesident was told what Scott be- t to be the truth about the finan- situation.

esident Roosevelt asked the West ginian who was being blamed for critical condition which the coun- is now facing.

"Do you wish me to give you a nk and truthful answer?" inquired nator Scott.

"Certainly," replied the President. really desire to know what is the inion of the people."

"Every one blames you, Mr. Pres- ent, for the unfortunate condition of e country.

IS FRANK.

"You have requested me to be rank with you and I will say that early every person with whom I ave discussed the situation has de- lared that the agitation against cor- porations and the business interests of the country, which is directly at- tributable to you, is responsible for the disturbance.

"They believe if there should be less talk, less denunciation, and if the laws should be enforced in a regular and orderly manner without the flour ish of trumpets, the country would be greatly benefited."

This frank statement was too much r President Roosevelt, who lost his mper and used some vigorous lang ge, which was not pleasing to Sen- or Scott.

The wrath of the President was reat and he told Senator Scott that e was not a friend of the adminis- ration and that he was misinformed.

Battleship Leaves Boston For Cruise

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The battleship Ver- mont sailed today for Newport, R. I., where a few additional men and torpedo mines outfit will be taken aboard, pre- paratory to its long cruise.

The New Jersey will sail tomorrow and the Illinois and Missouri leave Tues- day.

ROBBED OF $160 IN HOTEL BY STRANGER

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Robert Whigham, who lives at the Commercial Hotel, at Turk street and Van Ness ave- nue, was the victim of an old trick last evening, when he was robbed of $160 by a suave stranger, whom he met in the Fishbeck saloon.

Whigham was attracted by the person- ality of a man who stood next to him at the bar about 7 o'clock last evening, and the two became engaged in con- versation. They were soon the best of friends, and Whigham did not hesitate to accept an invitation to accompany the stranger to his room in the Hotel Audi- bon. Whigham says that soon after ar- riving at the room he became overcome with sleep, and it is said he may have been drugged by means of knockout drops. At any rate, he awoke this morn- ing to find his money missing and the stranger nowhere in sight. The pro- prietor of the hotel informed Whigham that he believed the man who had brought him there was a special police officer, and Detectives Bailey and Murphy have been detailed to make a thorough investigation of the case.

FORAKER ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY FOR PRESIDENCY

Senior Senator From Ohio Throws Down the Gauntlet to the Roosevelt Administration.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A letter made public last night by Senator For- aker of Ohio, in which he voluntarily retires as a candidate for United States Senator from Ohio, declares himself a candidate for the nomination for Presi- dent and places on the shoulders of the administration a share of the responsi- bility for the recent financial disturb- ance is likely to attract as much atten- tion as any of the long list of recent at- tacks on the Roosevelt administration. This action of Senator Foraker marks a distinct phase of the great contest by President Roosevelt and his friends to nominate Secretary Taft, or some other friend whom the President will select. It raises the issue fairly between Roosevelt and Taft on one side and Senator Fora- ker and those who do not believe in a continuance of the domination of the President on the other.

FORAKER'S PLANS.

Foraker announces that he will ask the Republican State Committee of Ohio to provide for the election of delegates to the next National Convention at a direct primary.

His announcement is contained in a letter to Conrad J. Mattern, vice-presi- dent of the advisory and executive com- mittee of the League of Republican Clubs of Ohio. This committee, with 98 out of 105 members present, voted unanimously to support Foraker both for Senator and for President and denounced the attempt of the Federal administration to "elimi- nate" him from Ohio politics.

Senator Foraker, discussing the three points of difference between himself and the President, says he believes the coun- try is with him in the Brownsville riot matter and the opposition to joint State- hood. Then he discusses railroad rates legislation, the third point of difference.

RATE BILL AND DEPRESSION.

The Senator says one of his predictions was that the passage of the rate bill would weaken the confidence of investors in railroad securities and perhaps cause serious business disaster. This, he holds, has come to pass and the authors of that legislation cannot escape their share of responsibility for contributing to the present business depression.

Foraker flatly declares against any present or prospective tariff changes and makes a strong point in alluding to the tendency to amend the constitution by judicial decision to suit new conditions, which is regarded as a criticism of Pres- ident Roosevelt's speech in St. Louis in October.

Referring to the attitude of the Ohio Republican League, Foraker says:

"I want to say that far beyond any- thing personal to myself I am gratified by the action taken, because it is a flat rebuke to the suggestion that the office of United States Senator is to stripped of all the honor attached to it by making its incumbent a mere agent to register the decrees of somebody else."

This "somebody else" means the Pres- ident.

THINK EWING TO BE OUSTED

William Maguire of Fresno Said to be Slated for Secretary's Position.

One of the latest rumors afloat in po- litical circles is that J. Cal Ewing, sec- retary of the State Board of Bank Com- missioners, is slated for early removal from the position and that William Ma- guire of Fresno will be appointed his suc- cessor. But, so far, the report lacks of- ficial confirmation. It has been sur- mised, however, for some time past that Ewing would be retired and he has, in fact, anticipated that such would happen, as he informed his friends nearly three months ago that Maguire was a candidate for the place.

Maguire made an active fight at the last regular session of the legislature for the passage of the division of Fresno county and the annexation of the south- ern part of Kings county, a measure which is to be the subject of a popular election early next month.

ACCUSED EMBEZZLER IS ACQUITTED OF CHARGE

ROCKPORT, Ind., Nov. 30.—John P. Walker, former city and county treas- urer, charged with the embezzlement of $65,000 of county funds, was acquitted last evening.

CHINESE DEAD FROM WOUNDS

Participant in Tong War Succumbs to Shots by Deputy Sheriff.

Wong Leong, who was shot six times by Deputy Sheriff William Moffitt during the Chinese tong war in Harrison Park on Thursday night, died at the Receiv- ing Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Special Policeman D. G. Murdock, who was shot in the foot by an unknown man, will be incapacitated for some time.

William Ryan, a peddler, the third man wounded in the affray, is still in the hospital with a bullet wound in his foot. He took no part in the shooting, but was struck by a stray bullet. He is particu- larly unfortunate, as he had just recov- ered from a fracture of the same foot.

The police, so far, have been unable to connect any one with the shooting other than Deputy Sheriff Moffitt and the dead Chinese and special policeman. Leong insisted in denying that he was a tong man, but said he was a cook and a member of the Chinese Educational Society.

WILL ARGUE OWN APPEAL

Judge Ogden to Appear Before Supreme Court on Monday Morning.

The Hon. Frank B. Ogden, judge of the Superior Court of this county, having heretofore presented his petition to the Supreme Court asking for a vindication from the effect of a decision rendered some seventeen years ago, will argue the same in person before the Supreme Court next Monday at 10 a. m.

The bar of Alameda county are fully conversant with the merits of Judge Og- den's petition and the great wrong that he has suffered from the effect of the de- cision referred to. He consequently has the unbounded confidence of every mem- ber of the bar of this county.

WE MUST KEEP JAPS

vinced me that the opposition to the Jap- anese is based partly upon race prejudice, though considerable of it is due to la- borers, instigated by agitators. I found Japanese residents in America and Can- ada who resent the incoming of their countrymen from the Hawaiian Islands and Mexico, which is disliked. While it is proper for Japan to conserve the in- terests of the Japanese, now residing abroad, many of whom are prospering and living peacefully in America, in my opinion it will be necessary in order to keep absolute faith with the United States to prevent the emigration of laborers thither altogether, because an exclusion act would be disagreeable. We should send laborers to Canada in great modera- tion."

RIGID EXCLUSION.

The foreign office is now engaged in investigating the representations of the American ambassador, Thomas J. O'Brien, concerning the character and number of emigrants. The indications are that the Japanese government will give formal but verbal assurances of a future rigid exclusion of all that can be termed strict- ly labor emigration to the United States, being careful also in limiting the number leaving for Canada. It is doubtful if these assurances will take the form of written notes to either country, but pos- sibly Foreign Minister Hayashi will make a statement in the Diet.

vices of the Associated Press from Seoul, the reports of disturbances throughout the country are exaggerated. There have been a number of outbreaks, however, the insurgents gathering in widely separated places.

They plunder farmers of their crops and intrench themselves against the Japan- ese, but are invariably dispersed.

The Koreans in large numbers are now assisting the Japanese to secure order.

A fight occurred on November 27 be- tween the Koreans and a band of 300 in- surgents, who were well armed. The Koreans were defeated and thirty killed.

BEAR HUNTERS LOST IN WOODS

Two Oakland ex-Chauffeurs Now Mining in Trinity Are Two Days in Peril.

Harry Hadley and Dave Jackson, former Oakland auto drivers but now engaged in mining in upper Trinity county were recently lost in the moun- tains for two days and a night. When found they were nearly exhausted from exposure and starvation.

The men started on a bear hunt on Saturday. With their dogs they fol- lowed a bear for half the day but finally lost the trail. They spent the night in the woods unable to find their way back.

The following morning they started for home but after traveling all day they found they had been going round in a circle. Their partner and the res- idents of New River became alarmed at their continued absence and formed a searching party which after long efforts and the firing of several hun- dred pounds of powder, located the young men near China Creek, seven miles from camp.

William Jackson, brother of Dave Jackson, is now in Oakland buying supplies for the camp.

in his arms, started to climb to the street, when the cave-in occurred.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED.

At the hospital it was found the woman was seriously injured. Her forehead was laid open, her left jaw was broken, and she received two badly lacerated wounds of the scalp, a probable fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

Policeman Rocca was uninjured, save for the two sprains, and was able to leave the hospital and report off duty at his station.

STEALS BREAD; GETS GOOD MEAL AND JOB

NEW YORK—Max Wagner was ar- rested recently on a charge of stealing a five-cent loaf of bread. For a time he was employed as cook in a restaurant in Forty-second street, Manhattan. The restaurant quit business and Max started to look for another job.

He answered an "ad." in Brooklyn. He had only 11 cents in his pockets. When he was going through Monroe street he saw a loaf of bread lying on the window sill of No. 848. He took the bread and was arrested by Lieutenant Flemming. The policeman, on learning Wagner's tale of hunger, sent out for a hot breakfast, which the former cook ravenously de- voured.

When Max was arraigned in court Mag- istrate Furlong discharged him. Wag- ner hardly was out of the court-room when a stranger offered him a job.

The pickpocket met the poet on the beach.

"Say, pal," greeted the pickpocket, "what brought you down to the sea?"

ACCUSED SLAYER IS DESPERATE EX-CONVICT

alias William Kingde, for holding up and beating George Witte, proprietor of a grocery at Bush and Franklin street on January 14, 1895.

The three men were suspected at that time of being responsible also for a number of daring street car robberies and were specifically charged with rob- bing and beating a conductor.

GETS TWENTY YEARS.

They appeared before Judge Wallace and Smith was sentenced to twenty years at Folsom. When he was asked if he had anything to say the robber re- plied that the court might as well have given him life, wherefore the judge or- dered that he appear in court and be tried on the second charge. He was again convicted and sentenced to an- other twenty years, but the court failed to order that they should run successive- ly and in consequence the man was re- leased after serving the first term, de- ducting the credits he had received. It is a notable fact which shows the brut- tality of the man that in every robbery he was concerned he beat up his vic- tim, and after being sentenced by Judge Wallace, on his way to the prison he maliciously struck Detective Tom Moran in the face with both hands as they were cuffed together. Of the two men ar- rested with him at that time, Wilson was declared insane, went to an asylum and has since been released. Fraser, in some unaccountable way, escaped from the sheriff's van while being taken to court for trial and has never been re- captured or heard from since.

THINK HIM ONE OF TWO WHO KILLED WHITE

The local police are strongly inclined to believe that John T. Smith, the high- wayman, who was arrested in San Fran- cisco yesterday after being shot in the mouth by a policeman, is one of the murderers of Special Policeman George White- Merkel. His method of operation, his attire at the time of his arrest, and the fact that he wore the blue polka-dot handkerchief mask, which was used by both of the assassins of the officer, all tend to identify Smith as the "short man" of the pair of thugs who murdered the policeman.

By means of the anatomical system of identification employed by Captain of Detectives Petersen of Oakland, it has been discovered that the San Francisco captive is none other than "Twenty- year" Smith, a notorious criminal who was recently released from Folsom after serving a twenty-year term. Soon after his release Smith came to Oakland and the police kept him under sharp surveil- lance.

When the city was being scoured for suspects immediately after the murder of White, Captain of Detectives Petersen sent for Smith and put him through a searching examination. At that time Smith said that twenty years was plenty for him and he was through with crooked work forever. There seemed to be noth- ing to warrant the police in holding the man then, and he was allowed to go after his physical peculiarities had been noted and listed in the anatomical criminal cat- alogue kept by Captain Petersen.

WAS THE MAN.

When the news of the arrest in San Francisco reached Oakland yesterday the detectives at once telephoned to learn if the captive had a cast in his right eye, and the little finger missing from one hand. When an affirmative reply was received, Smith's photograph, obtained from the Folsom records, was called to the attention of the San Francisco police and the identification was complete.

It is also believed that Smith was one of the pair of footpads who held up the Brooklyn Hotel in San Francisco a few days prior to the White murder. The description given by Samuel Deveny, the night clerk, of the two masked men who held him up and robbed the office, corre- sponds closely with that of the men who murdered White in Hennings Brothers' saloon. In both cases there was a tall man and a short man, both wore dark clothes and derby hats, and both wore blue polka-dot handkerchiefs as masks. The men always operate coolly and noiseless- ly, entering the places chosen with guns in hand.

Smith, when arrested, declared that he had been operating alone in San Fran- cisco, and it is believed that his "pal" has deserted him. This theory is further borne out by the fact that the police discovered a black coat, derby hat and a blue polka-dot handkerchief in a vacant lot at the corner of Fourth and Alice streets on the morning following the murder. It is believed that the murder- ers separated here, the tall man discard- ing his tell-tale garments, while his short companion made his get-away.

Captain of Detectives Petersen and Detective Hodgkins went to San Francis- co this morning to interview Smith.

EXPLODING OIL STOVE

jured was due to the fact that he was standing several feet away from the stove. As it was, he was burned about the wrists and cheeks. His eyelashes and his hair were singed.

OIL GAS EXPLODES.

Walden was attending to the furnace at the time, and through some inadvertence of another helper, when he applied a match to the stove, the whole surface got ablaze and the flames overpowered Wal- den. The extra amount of gas that had also accumulated exploded with a loud report, frightening those at breakfast and in the lobby. At first the diners thought it was an earthquake and began to scramble in all directions. Order was soon restored, and the guests seeing that the accident was not so serious as at first supposed, finished their breakfasts.

Idle rumors had spread in the Valley and elsewhere that Jordan was seriously injured, but these were set at naught when he made his appearance after a few minutes. He thought little of his burns and treated the experience only as an accident of small significance.

He is attending to his work as if noth- ing had happened, and expects all traces of his burns will be gone in a few days.

MONEY PACKAGES GONE REWARD OUT FOR CLE

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

THE PASSING OF COMMISSIONER WILSON.

Andrew M. Wilson has learned to his sorrow that he cannot kick against the pricks of public opinion. He is probably aware, too, that he is himself responsible for the calamity that has befallen him. If he had not "confessed" he might have prolonged the struggle against the inevitable until his term of office had expired by limitation. Of course it ought to be said with all the emphasis of moral conviction that Andrew M. Wilson should have so ordered his conduct as a public official in whom his fellow citizens had reposed implicit confidence that a confession of moral turpitude would have been impossible. But that is a matter wholly between Andrew M. Wilson and the conscience of Andrew M. Wilson. Perhaps Andrew M. Wilson thought that nobody would ever offer him immunity for his confession; or perhaps he knew that somebody with authority of pardon and absolution would give him immunity for what he confessed. Either horn of the Wilson dilemma in the original temptation is a plausible argument upon which to toss his condonation. The mere immorality of his primary action does not concern the general public; but his confession of such immorality is important, in that the arbiters of public morality and the official censors of such turpitudes as were charged against Andrew M. Wilson were eager to grant him absolution on condition that he implicate others in his turpitude It is true that as soon as Andrew M. Wilson retracted his confession, these arbiters of the public morality proceeded to use his confession as the club that should drive him headlong to perdition. But as in the age of divine right the king could do no wrong, so now, in this city, the official censors and prosecutors must be regarded as vested with a papal prerogative of infallibility; or, as has been falsely charged against the followers of Loyola, these inquisitors are competent to justify their purposes by the means they employ to accomplish those purposes. Since it is an immoral proceeding throughout; reeking with perjury, subornation of perjury, treachery and chicane; there is ample field for the casuist in traversing the possibilities by which Andrew M. Wilson could have escaped the consequences of his original dereliction and the calamity of his subsequent confession. Unfortunately, for Andrew M. Wilson, even the most subtle casuistry cannot prevail against public opinion as expressed or even threatened through a state legislature. And it was a final realization of this fact that convinced Andrew M. Wilson of the futility of further resistance to the demands of the public He resigned under protest, of course, but his protest may be dismissed on the grounds that it is incompetent, irrelevant and wholly immaterial The luminous circumstance in this affair is the lenity of the legislature in allowing Andrew M. Wilson to resign when there was a golden opportunity of forcing him to an explanation of his confession and subsequently firing him bodily.—Town Talk.

TROUBLE IN A SWELL CLUB.

The Sutter Club of Sacramento, a swell and exclusive organization, has had quite a little tempest within its conservative walls recently, all over the election of a president. The wrong man was elected, but on hearing this he declined, and the man for whom the office was intended was persuaded to lay aside the grouch that had been caused by his defeat and become president. The victim of the joke was William Devlin, attorney, and brother of United States District Attorney Robert T. Devlin. He was to be the regular nominee for re-election to the presidency, but as a joke on him, an opposition ticket, naming Alden Anderson for the office, was put up. To the surprise of the jokers, Alden was elected. When the result was known, Devlin's friends were indignant. The office did not look good to Anderson under the circumstances, so he promptly resigned. Then, after a little persuasion, Devlin allowed himself to be appointed to the vacancy. So, though not elected, he is president of the club.—News Letter.

IS BEAUTY'S REIGN AT AN END?

Out of Paris, whence last of all the capitals of the world this ungallantry might be expected and from the pen of Marcel Prevost, who has in his day broken a lance or two in the cause of feminity, comes the startling statement that the day of beauty has passed and that feminine loveliness no longer has power to charm. This startling thesis Marcel Prevost maintains with a philosophical attitude which almost but not entirely banishes the suspicion of personal bias in his argument. It does not palpably appear that Marcel Prevost speaks from the depths of a disgruntled experience, yet it is not unfair to extract that hidden motive from his altogether sensational pronouncement. To say that a woman is beautiful, avers M. Provost, has ceased to be a compliment and has become an annoying crudity of phrase patently disrelished by the fine ladies of the French capital who delight only in "elegance" and spurn the erstwhile powerful attraction of mere loveliness unadorned by the perfection of manners. Women, he explains, shrink from idealizing mere beauty, realizing that it is only the source of spectacular pleasure and has no relation to their power to charm by intellectual gifts. It is a spontaneous merit for which they have come to claim only perfunctory approval. Beauty, in other words, according to this Parisian philosopher, is now looked upon by the advanced women of Paris as a private possession no more worthy of universal admiration and comment than a taste for bronzes; it is something which may still continue an attraction for individuals, but not a source of pleasure to be avowedly shared in common And what is true of the women of Paris, opines M. Prevost, is coming, more slowly but still surely to be the fact with the advanced women of other capitals in Europe. Only in provincial and vulgar countries like America, he would have us believe, does mere feminine loveliness still concern women and command the admiration of men. It is an interesting theory, without doubt, and a debatable one. Beauty is not to be cast from her throne by an ipse dixit. Nor is Venue to be banished from Olympus by Homeric decree. The ladies for whom M. Prevost takes the liberty of speaking in this utter repudiation of the power of beauty to charm may prefer to express a less absolute degree of emancipation from the pride of conscious loveliness. Even if M. Prevost is the prophet of a new dispensation; the forerunner of a social revolution, it will take years, nay decades for humanity to alter its age-old attitude toward woman and her physical attractions, and meanwhile to the seer will be meted out the usual fate of prophets and precursors.—Town Talk.

WOMAN AND HER MANY QUALITIES.

Woman's defiance of the cold is a source of constant wonder to men, who shiver in many thicknesses of clothing, while women go blithely about in thin raiment oblivious of the cold. The snappy weather that has come on lately seems to affect no change in the clothing of the shirt-waist girl, who can be constantly seen on the street with chest so lightly covered as to be virtually bare to the wind. They go to skating rinks so clad, become overheated, then sail out into the wind as though there were no such things as grip or pneumonia. And they don't die of those diseases any more frequently than the men do, despite the fact that they are designated the weaker sex. And here is another thing, while we are discussing girls, Tobacco seldom sickens them. Of course, they are not supposed to smoke. But lots of them do smoke. This is not so alarming as many people think, for really there are very few girls who are habitual smokers—at least in San Francisco. Those who do learn the habit smoke, as a rule, only to show that they can do it. But to go back—nine girls out of ten learn to smoke without ever experiencing any ill effects from it. And on the other hand, nine men out of ten have a hard time, and go through all sorts of agonies learning to use tobacco. Score another for the strength of the weaker sex. And it is the same with liquor. Women can drink more of it than men can without showing the influence of it. Surely, between tobacco, alcohol and thin clothing they afford many puzzles. And, to ramble a little more, there ought to be an ordinance against fat women of middle age wearing peek-a-boo waists of fish-net design. No doubt you have observed them, and you will acknowledge that the spectacle is neither a beautiful nor an edifying one. Every once in a while, on the cars or in the shopping district, I see demonstrations that make me feel like calling for a policeman. Of course it is easy to explain. Take a vain woman, let age creep on, and with it the realization that she is losing her charm for men, and she will do almost anything to attract attention and make men look at her So that's why we so often see fat dowagers toddling along the streets in what are really evening costumes. And the men look at them—but not with admiration—News Letter.

WEALTH OF ALADDIN.

'Way back in the early days of San Francisco, a Mr. Hewes, who married the sister of Mrs Leland Stanford, held a contract to grade away the sand dunes at Sixth and Market streets. During the work he acquired a lot, for practically nothing, among the wilderness of sand and brush. He is now putting up on the identical piece of property a twelve-story steel frame building. He has now owned this lot for nearly thirty years, and he figures that this piece of land has netted him a profit of $2000 a year through increase in value alone. This is one of the strongest arguments in favor of putting money in San Francisco real estate, if any argument is needed. It is rightly named; it is the only real thing that there is, the only real value. There are a thousand opportunities to duplicate this man's good luck in San Francisco today. Of course, real estate has its fluctuations, but if one has the bulldog grip and the tenacity to hold on through adversity and time of stress, the reward is always large, providing good sense is used in the selection of property.—News Letter.

WHOLESALE DUCK ANNIHILATION.

Local duck hunters would be paralyzed by the conditions under which their sport is pursued in Mexico. There are ducks by the million there, but the real hunters have very little chance at them except far away from the large cities. There are many country estates where shooting is permitted, but nearly all the privileges near the cities are held by market hunters, who do not allow sportsmen to shoot on their preserves, and who have the slaughter of ducks down to a science. The ducks feed in the ponds, which the pot hunters take care to bait and make attractive for the birds. Then they arrange their battery of guns. Along the shores of the pond they place a row of shotguns, all securely mounted, and connected to an electric battery. These guns are pointed at the section of the pond that has the most bait in it. When the ducks settle, the guns are all set off at once by touching a button, and the slaughter that follows is something terrific. Some of the batteries are double, one row being discharged while the ducks are on the water and the other as the remainder of them rise into the air. In this way the killing is doubled. In some cases guns are not used, but sections of gas pipe are mounted, loaded with nails, small chunks of iron, or anything that will kill a duck. This sounds like a romance, but it is an actual fact, as many a man who loves to shoot for the sport of it will testify.—News Letter.

PROHIBITION IS GAINING RAPIDLY.

All but eight States are now for prohibition. The man who denies that whisky is the cause of nine-tenths of our troubles is as big a fool as the man who would cure those troubles instantaneously. The result of prohibition will be stagnation, heavier taxation. The Prohibitionist is all irresponsible sentiment. He rarely has aught but his immaculate theory. Take Milwaukee—suppress the breweries. Now what are those thousands of hop pickers; brewers and cask makers to do? Something else? Ah, indeed! A member of the W. C. T. U. told me that our wine makers had no right to make wine. I naturally asked: "What must they do with their grapes?" She answered, of course: "Something else!" San Francisco, I am confident, will never "go prohibition." I am equally certain of California in general. 'Twould ruin the State. Santa Clara Valley would be a desert; the grapes would rot on the vines. The vineyards would be abandoned. In time, drunkenness, like war, will be a thing of the past. People cannot understand, though, that even an abuse, if rooted by years, must be killed by degrees. Evolution is the great missionary Slavery was an old, curse cured instantaneously, but at what price?—News Letter.

ROOSEVELT AND HIS CRITICS.

In truth, it is not creditable to Mr. Roosevelt that at this late day there should be any question in the public mind concerning his personal attitude toward the third-term issue, if it may be so called. No man has a more definite way of making himself understood; and when he leaves so important a matter in doubt, there is room for speculation—and speculation is not to his credit It is true that the President once spoke definitely and positively on this point; it is further true that young Mr. Loeb in the name of his chief has declined the presidency with every change of the moon this year and a half or more. Nevertheless, men very close to the President, in the enjoyment of his personal confidence, commonly accepted in ordinary matters as speaking for him, are persistently urging the third-term proposal, and they have not been rebuked or silenced. And so long as these personal friends are active in the work of the third-term propaganda there will be speculation and gossip—and not without reason.

Speaking for itself, the Argonaut has never seen any cause to question the good faith and the finality of the President's declaration that he would not again be a candidate. It is not among those who believe that all the virtues and all the wisdom of the world are centered in Theodore Roosevelt, but it does not believe him a man of cheap subterfuges. Four years ago, when a candidate for re-election, his position was as straightforward, as open, and as manly as the situation and the dignities of his character demanded. If again he were a candidate, we believe that again he would say so in terms which his fellow-citizens would have no difficulty in understanding.—Argonaut

OUR BANKS AND NEW YORK.

A good many people would like to know why it is that San Francisco has sent so much gold to New York. Of course wherever New York financiers had a pull they exerted it, but this and other explanations have not been entirely satisfactory. It has been known in a general way that considerable New York capital has been invested in San Francisco banks, but it has not been known that sufficient of it has been so invested as to give a control to the Empire City. An eminent banker of this city is authority for the statement that a couple of years ago there were eight million dollars in gold in the vaults of one big bank waiting to buy stock in San Francisco banks. If this stock was purchased at that time the power that moved San Francisco gold across the continent would be readily understood.—The Wasp.

NAVAL OFFICERS CRUISE FOR LOVE.

One of the San Franciscans who lately fled from its cold winds to the milder climate of Santa Barbara was that delightfully well-bred youngster, Pierre Moore. The breeze which carried him south dropped him at the feet of Miss Edna Davis, the statuesquely beautiful daughter of Willis Davis, the wealthy San Francisco artist, who paints for pleasure and not for lucre only Miss Davis graciously permitted Mr. Moore to become her special cavalier and accepted his devotion with an air of contented possession, which convinced all observers that the announcement of an engagement would certainly soon be forthcoming. But alack a day out from the north came a chaser for Mr. Moore in the shape of Admiral Dayton's squadron with its full roster of young officers gay in their bravery of gold lace and brass buttons, and Pierre was apparently forsaken if not forgotten; the beach, the boulevard and the bridal paths no longer saw the absorbed couple. The junior officers were discriminately frank in their admiration of Miss Davis and she became the belle of the fleet. When the ships sailed away and faded in the offing it was thought that the faithful cavalier would be recalled, but if so he has disappointed expectations by becoming suddenly deaf to the summons. Once more the time-honored truth has been demonstrated that young naval officers cruising as gaily on the sea of love as the deeper waters of the blue Pacific seldom anchor for long in either.—The Wasp.

COMMENT ON MR. SCHWERIN'S STATEMENT.

There has been a good deal of comment on Mr. Schwerin's recent declaration that the Pacific Mail cannot do business profitably under the handicaps imposed on American shippers by the stupid regulations of the government.

Mr. Schwerin said that the present policy of the American government bade fair to drive the American flag from the Pacific, as well as from the Atlantic. His line, he said, was losing money as a result of the operations of the interstate commerce law.

Foreign rivals, who could change their rates at will, had piled up $5,000,000 in assets, while the American line; compelled to give thirty days' notice of a new passenger rate, was dropping between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in hopeless competition.

Schwerin referred to the liberal subsidies which are granted on the Pacific to British, German and Japanese vessels, and stated that two magnificent vessels were to be added to one Japanese line, which has already increased its fleet by three additional ships in comparatively recent times.

There are two sides to this story. The Pacific Mail has not been a legitimate shipping enterprise, but a feeder to railroad lines and a lever to kill real competition. When the government threw open the Panama railroad to everybody the fate of the Pacific Mail was sealed. The new line by Salinas Cruz and the Gulf of Mexico has also crippled it Probably nobody could have done better as manager than Mr. Schwerin, but the conditions were too much for any manager to make the Pacific Mail a paying concern. The hostility towards shippers who do not truckle to the labor agitators on the city front in San Francisco is also inimical to American shipping. It is impossible to see how under present conditions American shippers can compete successfully with foreigners, especially the Japanese, who are subsidized by their government and have an abundance of cheap labor. They seem destined to command the shipping trade of the Pacific, unless some radical changes occur.—The Wasp.

THE SUSPENSION OF DINAN.

The Police Commissioners would have done better had they suspended ex-Chief Dinan before they gave that unworthy official sixty days leave of absence with pay, when Chief Biggy took his place. Even the belated suspension is, however, commendable. Dinan used his leave of absence to organize the policemen against Mayor Taylor's election and succeeded in persuading them to vote that way. The discredited police officer was actually more powerful for a month before the election than was the newly appointed chief. The policemen firmly believed that Mayor Taylor would be defeated, and that Dinan would again direct the Police Department, and that graft and blackmail would once more become the motto of the municipality. If the Police Commissioners had followed The Wasp's candid and disinterested advice they would have fired Jerry Dinan the day they took office. They can atone for that mistake now by going at the reorganization of the Police Department in real earnest It needs weeding-out very badly. The commissioners should know and if not can learn the names of the officers and men who have been misusing their authority for personal profit.—The Wasp.

'TIS A TALE FROM OJAI.

Some society ladies of Oakland, I am told, have been filled with chagrin since the recent marriage of Mr. Ginn, the head of the well-known publishing house across the bay. Not long ago they had an opportunity to meet the estimable lady who is now his wife, but they overlooked it, presumably because they were skeptical respecting her social position, for at the time she was keeping a boarding house. Hence their present unpleasant emotion. Mrs. Ginn was formerly Mrs. Pierpont, widow of a Dr. Pierpont of the Ojai Valley, a little green plain which nestles a thousand feet in the air some fifteen miles back of San Buena Ventura. In this charming spot lives a colony of delightful souls who are as far above commonplace social conventions as their valley is above the sea. It is a colony of clever, cultured people who have come from various sections of the globe. They are distinctly an aristocracy of intellect. Some twelve years ago there came to this peaceful valley, the Pierponts, a cultured couple who were at once admitted to the charmed circle. Afterbuying many acres on the sloping mountain side they built a pretty home in the midst of an orange grove. Like many others they put more into the ground than they were able to take out. Dr. Pierpont fell into ill health and died, leaving an unproductive farm on the hands of his widow. In her predicament Mrs. Pierpont did not despond, but promptly turned her attractive home into a small hotel for the friends and relatives of the pupils of the near-by Thacher school. Being a woman of very charming and magnetic personality, Mrs. Pierpont made a great success of her enterprise. And none but an Oaklander or two felt that her social position had been impaired by her ability to meet the emergency that came with her husband's death.—Town Talk.

INNOCENT SUFFER FOR THE GUILTY.

That the innocent often suffer for the guilty is proven in the case of poor, old Mrs. Russell Sage, whose husband accumulated $75,000,000 by a life devoted to money-getting. His plan was to keep his money in the bank 360 days in the year, and lend it out to the Wall street gamblers at terrific interest on the other few days, when they were in a tight corner and bidding for call money at any price. The recent flurry on Wall street would have been a period of keen delight to the thrifty old gentleman. In his last days he realized that money was not everything and advised his good wife to get rid of it, which she has tried to do. So far she has parted with fifteen millions and done little real good. Womanlike, she has endowed everything in which she had a sentimental interest She gave a million to the Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y., where she spent part of her school days. That was one of the benevolent lady's wiser gifts. The school is devoted to the higher education of women, and will broaden its curriculum with the aid of the liberal endowment. Mrs. Sage has for years attended the annual meetings of the school association, but missed the last one which was held recently. She is virtually a prisoner in her home so beset is she by beggars who wish to share in old Sage's fortune. Watchmen guard her place and she can hardly dare to venture abroad unattended. On the morning she proposed to go to the Willard Association meeting she ventured out on her lawn for a stroll and was pounced upon by a strange woman, who stepped from behind a clump of bushes. Talking rapidly and in wild tones, the visitor appealed to Mrs. Sage to assist her with some novel scheme to make a fortune. Mrs. Sage's faithful servant, Mary, hastened to her mistress, rescued and shoved away the importunate one. Mrs. Sage is driven to keep refuge in the safety of her home. Even driving about the quiet, beautiful country roads is out of the question.

So persistent are her visitors that a guard has been posted at the station. Whenever he hears any one inquire for Mrs. Sage's home he promptly inquires the person's business, thus heading off would-be intruders. It is certain that the remainder of Mrs. Sage's life will be in solitary confinement in her country or town home. Her existence is rendered miserable whenever she ventures outside of it. Were she to travel, it would be just the same. Persons watch her every movement and lie in wait for any possible opportunity to get a word with her.

The poor old lady's miseries are unmerited, for in her husband's lifetime she represented all the benevolence in the household. She was always charitable and advised him to many acts of benevolence.—The Wasp.

Berkeley Men Win the Game

BERKELEY, Nov. 30.—The basketball teams of the local Young Men's Christian Association won a decided victory over the San Francisco Centrals last Wednesday evening, defeating them to the tune of 35 to 14 The game was played on the court of the Centrals, 1220 Geary street, San Francisco.

The local boys have been putting up a fine quality of basketball, having been successful against all comers. They have established a record as a winner-up of high scores. The previous team was defeated by the score of 32 to 11, one of the highest figures ever made on local courts

The return game is to be played with the Presidio team on December 4, in the Presidio gymnasium Another large score is expected

DISCARDS BILLBOARDS FOR THEATRICAL ADVERTISING

Noted New York Manager in Future Will Use Newspapers Exclusively Over All America.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Henry W. Savage, manager of "Mme Butterfly," "The College Widow," "The Merry Widow," "The Prince of Pilsen" "Woodland," "Parsifal," and other big productions, will cease to use billboard and all kinds of advertising for his many attractions except through the newspapers Savage notified the last of his lithograph and printing houses yesterday that he will not be in a position to renew any contracts owing to his decision to do away with all forms of poster advertising

It seems that Savage has been as liberal in his poster announcements as he has been in the lavish mounting of his productions But recently, in certain localities in order to test the true value of outdoor advertising, he decided to use the newspapers exclusively for heralding "The College Widow," and the results have caused him to decide discontinuing poster work after the Ade play leaves the Pacific coast

LITHOGRAPHERS LOSE.

This will be a heavy blow to the printers and lithographers, as Savage has over a dozen companies on tour in this country alone, calling for a season's expenditure of over half a million dollars Already several of the more prominent printers have sent special representatives to Savage in an endeavor to persuade him to change his plan, but in each case he has shown them figures of the immense amount of money he claims could be spent to better advantage and greater results under his new scheme. It is understood that the manager was prompted partly by the enormous amount of commercial advertising being placed on the billboards, which has become a public nuisance. It is understood that Savage will have the co-operation of five of the most prominent managers in his crusade against the billboard

The New York home office of Savage will immediately arrange for contracts for the newspapers of the Atlantic coast, while the Middle States will be handled from a special office in Chicago under the direction of Henri Gressitt All the Pacific coast newspapers will be contracted for by Ralph Pincus in San Francisco

...S FIND ...CIENT CITY

Town Official Tells O'Shanter Tale With Slight Variations.

...ILLA, Mexico.—One of the mem- ...of a colony of ghosts which are said ...ave taken up their abode in the ...n of Coatepec, this State, something ...re than a year ago seems to have ful- ...lled its mission, and, according to the ...ory, this particular ghostly being ...rought about the discovery of a large ...nd wonderful buried city, situated near the newer, but none the less picturesque town of Coatepec.

Coatepec is not by any means modern. It is new only by comparison with the prehistoric city which has been discovered close by. The glory of Coatepec was great in the times of the Aztecs. Some of the inhabitants of Coatepec at this time trace their ancestry back to the Aztec days, long before Cortez came over from Spain. These descendants from the ancient race claim that they have daily communication with ghosts and that a few of the mysterious spirits have always made their home in the town, but never were they in such numbers as during the last several months.

PRESENCE IS PORTENTOUS.

It has been a subject of common gossip among the people of Coatepec for several months that the increased number of ghosts in the town portends that some great event was about to happen to the place. These ghosts are said to be plainly visible to all who are upon the streets during the night. The strange visitors stalk about, sometimes in groups of two or three, and do not seem at all timid when closely approached by the inhabitants of the town. They are frequently seen at night sitting about the mountains that lie close to town, if the stories that are told concerning the mare to be believed.

The discovery of the buried city was made in a remarkable manner. Jose Miranda, a member of the City Council of Coatepec and prominent in business circles of the place, claims that he was riding home from a neighboring town one night recently when he was met by a ghost, which blocked his way. This ghost, Miranda says, had its head exposed and the moonlight shone through the hollow sockets of its eyes. When asked what was wanted the ghost pointed a bony finger towards the mountains.

This movement frightened the horse which Miranda was riding and the animal broke for town, carrying its rider with it. Miranda was riding along the same road a few nights later when the identical ghost which had met him before again halted him. This time the ghost held the horse by the bridle with one hand and with the other pointed towards the mountains.

Led by the ghost, Miranda says that he followed for about a mile, when they came to a large stone, located at the foot of a tree. The ghost pointed to this stone and then disappeared into the earth. After marking the place Miranda rode into town and told some of his friends about his experience.

A party was organized to make an exploration of the spot which the ghost had indicated. They removed the stone and a short distance beneath it they found a circle of human skulls. Below the skulls were found many relics of a bygone age, including pottery, jadbe beads and many beautifully engraved images. A number of stone slabs, covered with hieroglyphics, were also unearthed. Below these relics were found the walls of a large building, and the excavation that has since been done shows that the whole lower part of the mountain is covered with these ruins.

The Archaeological Department of the Federal government has been officially advised of the discovery and further explorations will be made of the ancient ruins.

IT COMBINES—the advantages of an established city (Redwood), with the delights of country life; schools, churches, stores, paved streets, water, gas, sewer system—all exist NOW in Redwood, not five minutes' walk from Dingee Park. Your family can move in a community of culture and friendship NOW. You can start to build your house beneath the oaks NOW and plan to live and be happy there.

IT PRESENTS—Home features unexcelled.
Superb climate.
No fog—no wind.
The children can live out of doors.
Magnificent oak trees—wonderful soil.
Scenery unsurpassed anywhere.
Views of mountain and bay.

IT INCREASES—your income by making what you spend pay—you pay rent to yourself—you own your own home—you are your own landlord. It increases your self-respect and the respect of your fellow men by making you a property owner.
It increases in value all the time because every outside influence is at work to make Redwood and Dingee Park double in value.

IT ENABLES—the business man to live in the country and to attend to his work in the city—without any inconvenience. It enables him to do away with transfers and ferry boats—to take his train in the morning or evening, sure of a seat and to enjoy 30 minutes' pleasant ride to town or to home.

IT CONTINUES—to attract the attention of all who want to own a real home—a place in which they can live and bring up their children and their grandchildren. It continues to grow in value and will be worth double within a short time.

IT IS—the only oak tree property on the market that is really desirable from every standpoint. It is the best and the cheapest residence property on the Peninsula today. It is the best to buy for a home or for an investment.

THIEF JUMPS INTO ARMOR

Dashes Into Costumer's Shop, Uses Clever Ruse, but is Caught.

NEW YORK.—John Dondero, 17, binds books for a living and dwells unostentantiously in Brooklyn. Centuries ago his forbears were haughty Florentines, and so John takes naturally to armor and a sword.

John came to New York yesterday and strolled into Mrs. Lizzie Holden's notion shop at 145 Norfolk street. Mrs. Holden was on a stepladder counting spools on a shelf. She said in Essex Market Court later that she was not aware of John's presence until she heard her cash register ring and saw John leaving.

WITH EAGLE SWOOP.

Then she dropped off that ladder as an eagle swoops and ran into the street yelling, "Robber!" and "thief!" John ran, pursued by mounted Policeman Louis Martin, to Rivington street, through a side street to Delancey, and west along Delancey nearly to Forsyth, where he dodged into the theatrical and costume "emporium" of Sammy Vogel.

Martin dismounted and followed him in. Vogel himself was out, and all Martin could see in the shop were an array of fancy costumes on counters and a platoon of lay-figures along the wall in full armor.

Not a sound disturbed the silence of that place of mystery, and Martin was about to leave when one of the gallant knights sneezed.

HELMET SMASHED.

Martin drew his club and advanced. The man in mail unsheathed his Damascus blade, made of papier mache. But one blow of Martin's club reduced the sword to a curl paper, and another converted the plumed helmet into a resemblance to a tin can after a picnic. Dondero capitulated and clanked stiffly along at Martin's saddle-girth to the keep of the Essex Market police court.

"By my halidom! what have we here?" exclaimed Magistrate Steinert, nearly falling off the wool sack.

"A recreant and a craven knight, your honor," replied Martin; "the lady charges him with undue avarice."

Dondero was stripped of his armor. Mrs. Holden's pocketbook, containing $11.91, came out of his trousers pocket, and he was held for Special Sessions.

...STANFOR DWHITE'S ART COLLECTION IS SOLD

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The sale of a large number of paintings last night closed the sale of the objects of art collected by the late Stanford White. There was a large and enthusiastic audience present, but the prices received were very small. The highest price paid was $725 for a portrait by the sixteenth-century artist Clouet. "Faun or Venus," a Watteau gem, went for $550. A landscape by John Lo Farge brought only $300. The total of last night's sales was $10,557, making the total for the entire sale $82,612.

DEFENDERS OF SWITZERLAND.

The report of the party who went from this country to study the military system of Switzerland will doubtless be unanimous on one point, that we have much to learn from the little republic, says the London Court Journal. From the age of 10 years all boys go through a compulsory physical and gymnastic course until they are 16, and after this age for four years they have to take up rifle shooting in addition to gymnastic training. Every man from his twentieth to his fortieth year is liable to military training.

Every useful work is accomplished in Switzerland by rifle clubs, which are encouraged by the state for the purpose of improving marksmanship. The population is under 3,500,000, yet there are 3500 such associations, with over 200,000 members. On a basis we should have over 2,500,000 members of rifle clubs instead of only 60,000.

COMPARE OLD PRICES WITH PRESENT ONES

It is exactly 100 years ago since Charles William Janson published his still entertaining volume, "The Stranger in America," in which he gives the fruits of his observations in this country during a long residence here. The book has frequently been quoted from, but his brief survey of the markets of this city as he found them in 1807, or perhaps a year earlier—for the book bears the date mentioned—is particularly enlightening in these times of high prices, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

During the Revolution the prices of food in Philadelphia rose to such a height that a committee was appointed to see that no serious overcharge or extortion was practiced. The prices of food, even during and immediately after the Civil War, never equaled those asked at this remote period. To an unprejudiced observer today it does not appear that the committee was able to make any serious break into the soaring prices asked at that time.

TEA £20 A POUND.

For instance, in the spring of 1779 "the best Hyson tea" was £20 a pound. At the same time coffee was 16 shillings a pound, which is nearly as alarming. The committee did, however, in deference to the demands of the inhabitants, who murmured at the price of butter, resolve that "if any inhabitant shall give more than 15 shillings for a pound of butter, such person shall be summoned to appear at the next town meeting, or pay 20 shillings into the hands of the committee, to be applied to the relief of the poor." While it does not appear whether these prices appplied to specie or to the Continental currency, so called, it may be taken for granted that the merchant who refused to part with a pound of tea for less than £20 had in mind payment in the Continental notes.

But in 1807 the Revolution had long been passed, and prices were normal. Janson speaks in terms of praise of Philadelphia markets. As a matter of fact, he had in mind only the market then in Market street. "It is well supplied," he says, "and its regularity and cleanliness indicate a good living and wholesome regulations. No article can be offered for sale here without being submitted to the inspection of one of the clerks of the market, who seizes unwholesome articles and a fine is inflicted upon the owner.

MEAT INFERIOR.

"The fish market, from its distance from the sea, is but indifferently supplied, though much pains is taken to procure a regular supply. Light carts are constantly coming in from New York and Burlington, in New Jersey, with the most delicate fish of the ocean, and packed in ice during the summer. The beef is good, but the mutton and veal far inferior to that of England and Ireland. Butter and poultry are excellent, and there is a profusion of vegetables. Butchers' meat, on an average, is 10 to 12 cents a pound, but poultry is not one-third of the London price, and of a superior quality.

"Fowls of all kinds are within the compass of the purchase of the laborer. A turkey of sixteen pounds weight may often be bought in Philadelphia for a dollar, but I have seen them sold for three shillings and even still less, British money. Wild turkeys are sometimes brought to market for the enormous weight of twenty-five pounds and upwards, but these birds retire from the country as it becomes more settled. Geese, duck, fowls, rabbits (there are no hares in the United States) are of a proportionate price. Quails, which they call partridges, are brought alive in large quantities and sold for about two and sixpence a dozen.

"Excellent butter is supplied by the German settlers at about an English shilling a pound, and eggs at sixpence a dozen. The pork throughout the United States is excellent, and is raised in abundance. It is generally in price from $5 to $8 per hundredweight."

FEAR OF THE FOREST.

One must be independent to enjoy the vast freedom of the woods, mighty and protecting, yet unfettering, gathering myriads of living things in safety within their shelter. It is a wonderful experience—and familiarity cannot lessen the wonder of it—to choose some unfrequented trail that the forest has half reclaimed and follow it for a time, then suddenly to stop and listen. The underbrush, the trees, the broken thread of path, which had seemed only to echo our footsteps and frame a human form, now in our silence give forth all the voices of the woods, elusive, intermittent, but alive—life everywhere, whispering warning of an interloper who may have come for evil or for good and one feels without seeing myriad eyes upon him.

Have you ever been afraid in the woods? Not that mysterious awe of the first twilights that all know who have camped, when the silence is absolute, when shadows have swallowed up the distance and the light has almost faded from the sky, when one feels dimly the vast, latent power of nature around him with which some time or other he must struggle and conquer or be crushed. This fear of the forest was different. I was alone and lost. I had taken a false trail at some unblazed turn and of a sudden realized the truth. For a long moment I could think of nothing, see nothing, hear nothing, only be conscious of the fact of my utter helplessness. I felt the heart deadening panic of the trapped animal, wanting to run against my barriers on every side. Only a moment, I say, and then my reason was alert to solve the problem of returning. But the mental experience left a vivid impression, and I can understand the despair of the really lost, wandering endlessly in aimless circles.—Outing Magazine.

WHAT IT WAS.

Young Bertie courted pretty Ann, and asked her for his wife.

Said she: "I love no other man, so will be yours for life."

Then gently round her taper waist his arm in rapture went, and on those ruby lips so chaste the first long kisses spent.

"What is it?" cried he in his joy, "that draws this heart to mine? What makes those cheeks so bright and coy, those eyes like stars to shine? What is it proves the world so fair when thy sweet form is nigh; that permeates the ambient air, the trees, the flowers, the sky? Oh, say, what is it that enthralls the kiss I hold so dear?"

She gently on his bosom falls. "It's anions, love, I fear."—Answers.

Mother Declares She and Not Her Girl is Guilty of Crime Charged.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—In an attempt to save her daughter from imprisonment on a charge of aiding and abetting forgery, Mrs. Mary Alice Dollinger today confessed to the crime and did all she could to impress on the authorities that the daughter, Alice, knew nothing about the transaction for which she is under arrest. Both mother and daughter were held for trial.

It is claimed by the authorities that several months ago Mrs. Helen Figge placed a piece of property in the hands of Henry Dollinger for sale. After a short time, it is alleged Alice Dollinger, his 17-year-old daughter, went to Mrs. Figge for the deeds and other papers connected with the title of the land, saying her father had found a purchaser. The papers were given to the girl. Soon afterward Dollinger and his daughter, accompanied by another woman, went to the office of a loan broker and the strange woman signed Mrs. Figge's name to papers calling for a loan of $6000 on the property. This woman, it is claimed, was Mrs. Dollinger.

Dollinger was arrested some days ago, but jumped his bail and disappeared.

NOTED SKIPPER SLIPS CABLE

Captain Marsh, Who Commanded Noted Clipper Ships, Passes Away.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The fast diminishing list of old clipper ship skippers was further reduced today when news was received of the death at Miama, Fla., of Captain Benjamin A. Marsh. Captain Marsh at various times commanded the famous clippers Helvetia, Germania and Logan, ships that still live in the memories of those who love the sea and mourn the departure of the great full-rigged ships that made American shipping famous. When a skipper for the old New York and Havre Packet Company in the early fifties, Captain Marsh distinguished himself by taking his ship from New York to Havre in less than three weeks.

In 1889 Captain Marsh was one of the crew that rowed President Harrison and Vice-President Morton from a ship anchored in the East river to Wall street for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of George Washington's arrival for his inauguration as President. Captain Marsh was 89 years old.

NO BIBLE READING IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—A project to introduce Bible selections as supplementary reading in the public schools of Chicago was laid on the table by the School Management committee of the Board of Education. After recommending three selections as suitable reading a sub-committee consisting of Miss Jane Addams, [illegible] Hull House; Dr Alfred D. Kohn, [illegible] member of the board, and Mrs. Anita MacCormick Blaine, asked that their report be laid on the table. This was done after a long discussion among those who voted "nye" being Rev. A. V. White, pastor of the Stewart-avenue People's Liberal Church.

"Non-sectarian character of our schools is one of our most precious possessions," said Miss Addams. "On this ground we are putting ourselves on record.

'PAROLE CURE' AIDS CUPID AND REDUCES JAG RECORD

Chicago Judge's New Prescription Makes Wives Love Their Husbands.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Unprecedented attainments of Judge McKenzie Cleland's "parole cure" as a Cupid restorative and obliterator of alcoholism came to light last night as the ninety-nine paroled patrons appeared before the court.

One woman declared since she became a "patient" she had "fallen in love with her husband." One man said the total abstinence experienced after he took the parole cure was the first sober moment he had known for two years. In almost every instance testimonials of the beneficial results of Judge Cleland's prescription were related.

The reports of the parole officers showed that in a few cases, the homoeopathic doses of the parole cure were not of sufficient strength to cause an improvement or complete cure.

Judge Cleland promptly issued warrants for those who had failed to profit by his clemency, and they will be sent to Bridewell. Judge Cleland expressed himself as satisfied with the results of his temperance pledge parole system.
